AL CAPONE FURNISHES $50,000 BOND

EVASION OF INCOME TAX LATEST CHARGE AGAINST GANG KING

Facing Heavy Fine,
Possible Term In
Federal Pen

CHICAGO, June 6.—Al Capone, America's number one gangster, was under $50,000 bond today for income tax evasion and sadly contemplated that money talks but in this case talked back.

Three years of investigation crystallized into three hours of fast action yesterday and "Scarface Al" discovered that federal investigators, scores of them, had been prying into his most secret affairs and that he owed the government back taxes of $215,000. He is also liable to an $80,000 fine and if found guilty on all twenty-two counts contained in the indictments returned against him by the federal grand jury he may have to serve fifty years in Leavenworth penitentiary.

At 2 o'clock the indictments were returned and three hours later, Al, in company with lawyers and bondsmen surrendered and was released.

Grand jury proofs indicated that Al had a net income of $1,038,654 from 1924 to 1929 inclusive but this was not regarded as being the sum of the millions he is popularly supposed to have made from his various rackets, beer the chief one.

Capone is now under $50,000 bail to the federal court on a charge of contempt of court which may bring him a six-month sentence before the present case comes to trial.

"There's nothing to it," was Al's comment on reports that he would plead guilty in the hope of getting a light sentence.

United States attorneys under George E. O. Johnson who has been extraordinarily successful in prosecuting gangsters through their illegal profits said the case against Capone was "airtight."

The amounts listed in the indictment, a document sixty-four pages long, have been definitely checked and traced, although other huge sums may have been hidden away. Meanwhile, Sam Guzik, Capone lieutenant, started for Leavenworth to begin a year and a day sentence for income tax violation also. Ralph Capone, Al's brother, has an appeal pending from a similar conviction.

VETERAN TEACHER CLAIMED BY DEATH

COLUMBUS, O., June 6.—The body of Mrs. Pauline Ashton McKee, 90, former Portsmouth school teacher and a native of New Castle, Pa., was to be removed today to Portsmouth for burial Monday.

Mrs. McKee, who taught school for forty-five years at U. S. Grant School, Portsmouth, where a bronze tablet has been erected in her memory, died yesterday at the home here of her niece, Mrs. Effie Russell, after an illness of several years.

CONSTABLE FREED OF MURDER QUITS

PORTSMOUTH, O., June 6.—Recently acquitted of second degree murder in the shooting of a youth he sought to arrest, Constable Roy Downing of Waverly today had presented his resignation.

Authorities, following an investigation into the death of Gale Pendleton, 20, who was shot May 4, declared the killing unjustified and charged Downing with murder. The jury, however, returned a verdict of not guilty.

VIVIAN J. FAGIN, POLITICIAN, DIES

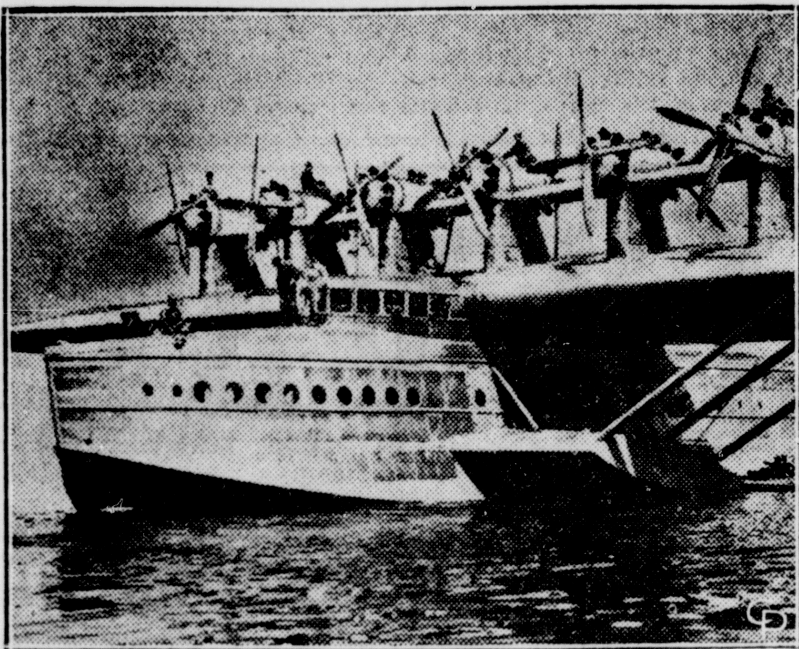

CINCINNATI, O., June 6.—Funeral services for Vivian J. Fagin, 78, former United States marshal for the southern district of Ohio and one of the colorful political figures in the history of Cincinnati, will be conducted Monday afternoon, according to arrangements completed today.

Fagin died yesterday following an illness of three weeks. He is survived by his widow, one son and two daughters.

NAUTILUS IN FOG

BOSTON, June 6.—The submarine Nautilus, crossing the Atlantic preparatory to an attempt to go under the ice cap at the North Pole, was running today through a dense fog 233 miles east of Cape Cod Light, according to a radiogram to eastern coastguard headquarters from the coastguard cutter Ponchartraine, timed 8 a. m. E. S. T.

DO-X REACHES GOAL IN OCEAN HOP

Landing on the island of Fernando de Noronha off the South American coast, the 50-ton German airplane DO-X has successfully completed its long-delayed transatlantic flight, carrying thirteen persons and piloted by Captain Friedrich Christiansen. It made the crossing from Porto Praia, Cape Verde Islands, in fifteen hours and thirty-three minutes. From Fernando de Noronha the big plane was to fly the 200 miles to the South American mainland, to Natal, and thence to Rio de Janeiro. Map shows the route followed.

WHAT DID GOVERNOR OF NEW YORK SAY TO GOVERNOR OF OHIO?

Political Followers Believe Next Race Was Discussed

COLUMBUS, O., June 6.—Political Ohio speculation today about what was said between Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York and Governor George White of Ohio in a conference at the executive mansion here last night.

Despite declarations by Governor Roosevelt that "my trip is not of a political nature," followers of the game of politics could not help believing that Roosevelt's attempt to gain the Democratic nomination for President was the principal subject of conversation.

Besides the two governors at dinner in Mr. White's executive mansion were United States Senator Robert J. Bulkley, of Cleveland, himself often mentioned as a presidential candidate, Henry C. Brunner of Mansfield, chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, and William W. Durbin of Kenton, also a well-known Democrat.

Politicians saw considerable significance in the meeting because Governor White, chairman of the Democratic executive committee when James M. Cox of Dayton was candidate for President, has been repeatedly mentioned as a possible running mate for Roosevelt in the 1932 campaign.

Frequently he has been suggested as the head of the ticket and seldom is he counted out of the race, despite his statement a few weeks ago when he said he was "too busy being governor of Ohio to think about being President."

Following a visit in Dayton yesterday with former Governor Cox, Governor Roosevelt stopped in Columbus late in the afternoon while enroute back to New York from French Lick, Ind., where he attended the conference of governors.

Eleven years before, when Democratic candidate for vice president, Roosevelt made a similar visit at the governor's residence to confer with Mr. Cox, then governor of Ohio and the Democratic presidential nominee.

At that meeting Mr. White was selected as the party chairman for the approaching campaign. Roosevelt's visit with former Governor Cox at the latter's estate at Trail's End at Dayton, he said, "is just a visit with an old friend," and beyond that he would say no more than he said about the conference with Governor White.

Politicians in Governor Roosevelt's home state, it was said today, regard Governor White as a dry who would prove an ideal vice presidential candidate on a ticket with Roosevelt, an avowed wet.

White, New Yorkers said, knows politics and conventions, having been early in the campaigns for Woodrow Wilson, Cox and John W. Davis. In Alfred E. Smith's campaign he was not very active because he had previously pledged to help Roosevelt.

Following the parley with Governor White last night, Governor and Mrs. Roosevelt departed by train for Albany.

TREASURY BALANCE

WASHINGTON, June 6.—Treasury balance as of June 4, $32,219,992.44; expenditures, $19,887,894.44; customs receipts, $4,166,740.78.

Former Fifi Stillman On Trip With Young Husband After Hasty Marriage

NEW YORK, June 6.—While his vivacious former wife, Anne, was honeymooning with her youthful new husband, Fowler McCormick, James A. Stillman, former president of the National City Bank, sailed for Europe today on the White Star liner Olympic.

Thus was written an amazing new chapter in the most sensational divorce story in the annals of American wealth and society. Mrs. McCormick is past fifty. Her husband is 32. James A. Stillman is past sixty.

Fowler and Fifi Potter Stillman McCormick were tucked away today at an Oceanside cottage in East Hampton, L. I., accompanied by only a few servants. Both appeared happy and anxious to escape from outside contacts. Neither would express any other than good wishes for Stillman. And in his statement on the Olympic, the millionaire banker expressed the same sentiments.

Smiling as genially as ever, Stillman said he wished his former wife and her young husband all the luck in the world.

"I am not married and do not intend to get married," said Stillman in response to a query. "As for my former wife, she is thoroughly capable of speaking for herself." There was a bit of a chuckle accompanying this.

Asked if he was surprised at the news of his former wife having married young Fowler McCormick, Stillman said:

"I am not surprised at anything these days."

Despite Stillman's attitude as to his future marital plans, he appeared much concerned when an employee of the steamship company referred to "your other cabin."

"I am traveling alone," Stillman hastened to add.

Stillman gave the impression of a boy released for a holiday. "I am glad it is all over," he said. "It is not pleasant to have one's private affairs become the concern of the public. The publicity which has been my lot is naturally embarrassing. I wish my former wife nothing but the best of luck and much happiness."

A few hours before Stillman sailed his former wife and her husband, Fowler McCormick, were located at East Hampton.

"We are going to stay around

HARDING KIN WEDS

Marion, O., home of the late President Harding, is gasping over the marriage of Miss Jean De Wolfe, above, granddaughter of the late Mrs. Harding. Just as society folk were preparing to attend Miss De Wolfe's wedding to David J. Morgan of Toledo, she quietly married Charles M. Weil, Marion furniture dealer. A pretentious wedding had been planned, then postponed, when the bride suddenly changed her mind and married Weil.

GERMANY ASKS RELIEF FROM REPARATIONS IN OFFICIAL MANIFESTO

Declares Young Plan Has Failed To Help Undue Burden

BERLIN, June 6.—An official demand for Germany's relief "from the unbearable burden of reparations" was made today in a government manifesto accompanying publication of Chancellor Heinrich Brüning's emergency financial decree.

"The German people," the manifesto declared, "have reached their limit of privations. The assumptions on which the Young plan for reparations payments was drawn have proved erroneous. The Young plan has failed to bring the alleviations which were promised."

"Germany's economic and financial condition demands relief from the unbearable burden of reparations."

The manifesto made no actual mention of reparations revision and proposed no actual steps for amelioration of present conditions.

Issued simultaneously with Chancellor Brüning's visit to Chequers for a conference with Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald of Britain, the manifesto was interpreted as an official bid by the German government for international co-operation.

"We have done our utmost to meet the obligations growing out of the war," the manifesto continued. "To this end we took extensive advantage of foreign help."

"The German government is now obliged to proclaim to the world that the limit of the privations we can impose on our people has been reached."

This statement indicated Germany had decided against incurring any additional loans for the purpose of meeting reparations payments. This obligation in the past has been met almost entirely by this means, necessitating imposition of heavy taxes on the people.

AUTOIST KILLED

MONROE, Mich., June 6.—John Lop, 35, a steel worker of Holiday's Cove, Va., was dead today from injuries received a mile north of here yesterday when his automobile was struck by a Michigan Central Passenger train.

SENATOR LORBACH TO OPPOSE HOLLISTER FOR CONGRESS SEAT

CINCINNATI, O., June 6.—State Senator David P. Lorbach, Democratic anti-prohibitionist, will oppose John B. Hollister, wealthy Republican attorney, for the congressional vacancy caused by the death of Speaker Nicholas Longworth, it was practically assured today.

Hamilton County executive committee of the two parties met simultaneously yesterday and announced those choices. Endorsement by the party executive committees, according to Cincinnati politicians, is equivalent to victory at the primaries.

ROUTE TO EAST IS CONSIDERED

NEW YORK, June 6.—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh may fly to China and Japan by the way of the east, instead of the west, it was reported today.

Colonel Lindbergh, who announced the route had not been decided on, said he would not take off for three weeks or a month.

If the eastern route was selected, the Lindberghs would take a course across Greenland and Spitzbergen to Siberia and thence to China. The great circle flight, the shortest distance to Peiping from New York flying eastward, would bring them close to the North Pole.

It is possible that the Lindberghs would be in the vicinity of the polar region at the same time the submarine Nautilus, carrying Sir Hubert Wilkins on an Arctic expedition, plans to meet the Graf Zeppelin.

PEDESTRIAN HIT BY TRAIN ALONG RAILS NEAR THIRD STREET

Elmer Bowermaster Is Injured When Hit By Pennsy Train

Elmer Bowermaster, 25, of 4 Miami Ave., laborer, was painfully, but not seriously injured when he was struck from the rear and knocked ten feet by a Pennsylvania passenger train as he was walking toward the depot alongside the railroad tracks by The Eavey Co. at Detroit and Third Sts., Saturday morning.

Said to be somewhat deaf, Bowermaster declared he did not hear the train approaching, although witnesses said the bell clanged and the train whistle blew six times.

Engineer William Fox, Xenia, applied the brakes. Bowermaster was hurrying to catch up with a friend walking ahead of him along the railroad right-of-way, and was too near the rails. The locomotive brushed him to one side.

The injured man was removed by James Cowan, who saw the mishap, in his auto to the office of Dr. Marshall Best. An examination showed Bowermaster had received cuts and bruises on the left side of the body from the shoulder to the hips, minor scalp lacerations and cuts on both hands, but no bones were broken.

The passenger train, running between Springfield and Chicago, was headed toward the local Pennsylvania station, the accident taking place a few feet from the point where the tracks cross the side walk on the west side of Detroit St.

PRESIDENT TAKING UP NAVY ECONOMIES AT WEEK-END CAMP

Department Chiefs To Consider Cut In Expenses

HOOVER CAMP, Rapidan, Va., June 6.—The President and his week-end guests sat at breakfast here this morning, after a night of sleep in the mountain air, preparatory to tackling the problem of reducing naval expenses during the ensuing fiscal year. The President late yesterday determined on a Friday evening trip, when weather observers predicted showers for today.

The chief executive breakfasted with the various bureau chiefs of the navy department. He will be joined this morning by Secretary of the Navy Adams and Assistant Secretary for Aviation David S. Ingalls. Adams is to arrive here this morning, flying in an auto-giro piloted by Ingalls. The pair expect to land their "windmill" at the camp of the U. S. Marines, adjacent to the presidential camp.

Naval officials representing all the important branches of the service were part of the group already here.

Then, too, there was Hugh Gibson, veteran diplomat and American ambassador to Belgium, who will discuss the possible international ramifications of any naval economy moves, and Rep. Simmons, (R) of Nebraska, a member of the house appropriations committee.

Naval economy is about the toughest nut the administration will have to crack in its plan of generally curbing expenses for the new fiscal year beginning July 1.

Certainly so far as the navy command personally is concerned, the feeling is that the navy has been cut to the limit through previous economy moves and the reorganization effected by Admiral William V. Pratt when he became chief of naval operations last year. Pratt's reorganization cut close to 5,000 enlisted men from the naval personnel, and scrapped much useless floating metal.

McLean and other officers of the navy, although they will of course make all efforts possible to effect further savings, feel that any further reduction in naval expenses will impair the efficiency of the sea fighting forces.

What the administration has in mind, is another matter, however. Any cuts, some officials point out, probably would result in the elimination of some remote recruiting stations, and the possible closing of one of the four training stations.

BAPTIZE PLANE WITH AIR
HEIDELBERG, Germany, June 6.—A new motorless airplane of the Heidelberg Academic Aviation Union was christened by the rector of the university here with its own element when he poured a glass of liquid air over it. This is probably the first instance of a symbolic christening of this kind.

POLICEMAN DIES IN CRASH HURRYING TO SCENE; SEVEN HURT

Workmen Trapped Underground When Wall Of
New Construction Work Collapses; Patrol
Wagon Wrecked Near Scene

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—Trapped in a subterranean cave-in on a building construction project which bore every resemblance to a mine entombment, five workmen met death, four other laborers and three policemen were injured, and a policeman, rushing to the scene, was killed today.

The dead: William Hicks, Thomas Ebbs, William Hayes, S. Walker and Leroy Knight, workmen, and Patrolman Elmer Patterson, 54.

Patterson was killed and his fellow officers were injured when a patrol wagon was wrecked while speeding to the succor of the trapped men.

The cave-in occurred seventy feet below the street level in the heart of the business district at 12th and Market Sts., where excavation was under way for the new thirty-two-story Philadelphia Saving Fund Society building.

The injured are: George Jones, 31; Milton Haynes, 38; Nelson King and Leslie Dowd, 24, all construction workers, and Policemen George Coggins, 40; Anthony Gentile, 36, and Eugene Palfr.

An immediate investigation into the collapse of a wall adjoining the excavation, which buried the men under tons of bricks, mortar and other debris, was begun.

Thousands of office workers in the downtown section, aroused by the walling sirens of police and fire apparatus, crowded around the wreckage. Police lines were quickly established. The scene of the accident is almost in front of the Reading Railway station, in the heart of the city.

Joseph Donato, 34, foreman of the laborers, narrowly escaped death. As the towering mass crashed down, Donato leaped to safety, escaping the main body of the crumpled wall although showered with debris.

Tommy Armour Gets British Open Golf Crown for America

MARKS EIGHTH TIME IN EIGHT YEARS TITLE
COMES TO U. S.

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland, June 6.—For the eighth time in as many years the British open golf crown rested jauntily today on the brow of an American.

By his victory yesterday in the face of opposition from the world's best golfers, Tommy Armour, Detroit professional, joined Bobby Jones and other immortals of golf-dom.

Slight consolation was derived by the British, who had confidently looked forward to capturing the title, from the fact that the Detroit golfing master learned his golf in Scotland and once held the Scottish amateur title. Today they were acclaiming him as the "Black Scot."

American or Scotch, he displayed the canny traits of the latter in setting a burning pace to overhaul Jose Jurado, diminutive Argentinian, who held the lead as the final eighteen holes of play opened. That he outpaced the Argentinian by only one stroke did not detract from his performance as Jurado was five full strokes ahead as they moved into the home stretch.

Displaying the suavity by which he once captured the American national championship, Armour shot a sizzling 1 to give him an aggregate score of 296 strokes. The pace proved too fast for Jurado, making his debut in major competition, who slowly gave way under the grueling hazards of the course. He finished with a 77, for a total score of 297.

The first American victory was chalked up by Walter Hagen in 1922. A. G. Havers recaptured the title for Great Britain the following year, but since 1924 the American string of victories has been unbroken.

Jess Barnes took the title to the United States in 1925 and Bobby Jones won it in 1926 and 1927. In the following year, Hagen again won the championship and was the first man to capture it three times when he again finished first in 1929. Bobby Jones returned last year to equal Hagen's record of winning the British open three times.

Gene Sarazen, former American open winner, and Percy Allis, British professional at a Berlin club, were tied with 298 apiece for third place. Other Americans, including MacDonald Smith, Carnoustie-born professional, striving to win his first major championship, finished in the van.

SEAPLANE GROOMED
FOR NORTHERN TRIP

NATAL, Brazil, June 6.—With 15 days before them before they again take to the air, members of the crew of the giant seaplane, DO-X, today carefully groomed each of the twelve motors that successfully carried the huge craft across the South Atlantic.

The big air liner arrived here yesterday from Fernando Noronha island, where it landed after winging its way across the 1,400 mile path from Porto Praia, Cape Verde island.

FECHET, EAKER ESCAPE DEATH

TAPACHULA, Mexico, June 6.—Major General James E. Fechet, chief of the United States Air Corps, and Pilot Captain Ira T. Eaker narrowly escaped serious injury here today when their plane crashed while attempting a landing.

The two men were badly shaken when the ship in which they were flying to Panama nosed over into the ground, breaking the propeller. They said they would continue their journey as soon as a new propeller reaches them from Mexico City.

Captain Eaker was one of the pilots of the "Question Mark," army plane first to establish an endurance record by refueling.

SENTENCE SISTERS TO PRISON TERMS

WILLIAMSTOWN, Ky., June 6.—For assisting two men—one now dead after a fight with police and the other being hunted by authorities—in the carefully-planned robbery of the Mt. Zion bank, near here, Rose Baird, 20, and Ruth Saunders, 22, Kansas City, sisters who were captured after a gun fight at Bowling Green, O., today faced prison terms of three years each.

They were convicted of aiding William "Billy the Killer" Miller and Charles Arthur Floyd in a bank theft in which cautious preparation and unique getaway methods were used.

Miller, reputed leader of the bandit quartet, was shot and killed in a revolver engagement with Bowling Green police a few weeks ago, and Floyd, his companion and supposed sweetheart of one of the girls, fled toward Toledo and Detroit and is still being sought.

CONVICT MARSHAL IN ASSAULT CASE

IRINTON, O., June 6.—(I. N. S.) Albert Nance, marshal of Coal Grove, a village near here, today stood convicted of a charge of assault and battery on Mrs. Anne Stein Hesson, a former school teacher.

A jury, which was given the case in Lawrence County Common Pleas Court, found the marshal guilty of assaulting Mrs. Nesson when he and three other men unsuccessfully raided her home last Christmas night while a private party was said to have been in progress.

PAINTINGS BURN AS PALACE DESTROYED

MUNICH, June 6.—Three thousand valuable paintings were destroyed today when fire swept through the "Glas Palast." The palace, internationally famous exhibition hall, burned to the ground in a few hours. Damage amounted to 1,000,000 marks. Three freed to 1,000,000 marks. Three freed to 1,000,000 marks.

Only about fifty of the many paintings on exhibition since June 1 were saved. The lost pictures were mostly modern and a special display of romantics from countries all over the world.

WOMEN'S DEAN DIES

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., June 6.—The body of Amanda Lee Beaumont, 45, dean of women at Marshall College, who died suddenly last night, today was to be taken back to her home in St. Joseph, Mo.

CEDARVILLE COLLEGE ALUMNI OFFICERS ELECTED AT MEET

James McMillan, manager of the Tri-County Herald, weekly newspaper at Osborn, was elected president of the Cedarville College Alumni Association for 1931 at the annual alumni luncheon and business meeting in Alford gymnasium Friday afternoon. Earl Collins, Cedarville, is the retiring president.

Other new officers selected are: Probate Judge S. C. Wright, first vice president; Miss Lucile Johnson, second vice president; Miss Carrie Rife, Cedarville, recording secretary and treasurer; and Miss Mabel Stormont, Cedarville, corresponding secretary.

Lloyd Confar, Cedarville, was elected to serve during the coming year as the alumni representative on the college board of trustees.

A permanent memorial fund started by the association in 1910 was re-established under the name of the Frances McChesney memorial fund in memory of Miss Frances McChesney, daughter of Dr. W. R. McChesney, president of Cedarville College, who died recently and who was corresponding secretary of the alumni organization during the past year. The fund, to which alumni make voluntary contributions, now amounts to more than $4,000.

Covers for 250 persons were laid at a luncheon served at 12:30 o'clock, which preceded the business meeting. Later a program of music and informal talks were presented.

Earl Collins, retiring president, asked as toastmaster and welcomed members of the 1931 Cedarville College graduating class, who were guests at the banquet, into the alumni association. James Stormont, senior class president, gave the response.

Brief talks were given by President McChesney, the Rev. William H. Tilford and Attorney J. A. Finney, Xenia, and the Rev. Harold Hammond, Bellefontaine, O. The Misses Eleanor and Lucile Johnson, Cedarville, sisters, contributed vocal music to the program.

The class of 1909, with five members present, had the greatest number of representatives at the meeting, while the earliest graduating class represented was the class of 1897.

The alumni also voted to work out a definite schedule for class reunions in future years.

ALFRED D. MCNEFF, FORMER XENIAN, IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Alfred D. McNeff, 38, died at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George McNeff, 652 S. Detroit St., shortly before 9 o'clock Friday night.

He had arrived in Xenia from Port Stanton, N. M., Sunday night for a visit of thirty days with his parents, but became ill on the train. His condition became serious Tuesday when he lapsed into a coma from which he never aroused. A complication of diseases, culminating in uremic poisoning, caused his death.

Mr. McNeff was born in Xenia, March 27, 1893, attended the Xenia public schools and graduated from Central High School with the class of 1912. He was an all-around athlete in high school, playing end on the football team, forward and guard on the basketball team and pitched for the baseball team.

He later attended Ohio State University one year and then organized his own orchestra, playing in hotels and amusement parks. He was an accomplished violinist and was leader of the orchestra, known as the Ohio State Quintet. When his health failed in 1918 he obtained appointment to a government position with the marine hospital of the U. S. Public Health Service at Ft. Stanton, August 12 of that year, and was employed as a voucher clerk in the office at the time of his death. He also operated a watchmaking and repair business at Ft. Stanton, served as notary public and was treasurer of the post baseball team. He maintained his membership in the First M. E. Church in Xenia.

Mr. McNeff was an only child and his visit home at this time was the first since the fall of 1929. Funeral services will be conducted at the home Monday at 2:30 p. m., followed by burial in Woodland Cemetery. Friends may call anytime after 3 o'clock Sunday.

CEDARVILLE STUDENTS RANK HIGH

Cedarville High School students were showered with honors during the recent state scholarship contests, placing six among the winners in various subjects.

The record of Cedarville helped put Greene County seventh among the eighty-eight counties of the state. The Cedarville winners shown above are:

1—Wendell Murphy, 12, who took third place in ninth-year English in county classification of schools.

2—Mary Margaret McMillan, who won first place in tenth-year English regardless of classification. It was the second year she won this honor.

3—Justin Hartman was named in the upper 1 per cent of the 55,000 pupils in the state in the eighth grade test.

4—Christina Jones awarded honorable mention in ninth-year English.

5—Carma Hostetler, winner of tenth place in eleventh-year English.

6—Ruth Kimble, winner of third place in tenth-year English in county classification of schools.

Miss McMillan, Miss Kimble, Miss Jones, Miss Hostetler and Miss Murphy are pupils of Mrs. Hazel Edwards, English teacher, H. D. Furst is superintendent of schools at Cedarville.

There was "weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth" on last Wednesday evening when the broken-down Patriarchs of the village with their white, flowing Rip Van Winkle whiskers and their systems over-running with confidence, bloomed forth like a century plant, and after a week's rest, with little or no practice, by a small margin, overthrew the last hope of the beardless youths who had never passed through the "nervous turn" of matrimony. From the fact that the third game between the married men and the single men was to be a test of strength to decide the championship of the Miami Valley, caused a large crowd to be present—all the business of the town being suspended until after the game. The fight was a royal one from the time the umpire called "play ball" until darkness began to throw its long shadows over the battle field. The big bare-footed boy on the mound for the single men, had perfect control, but could accomplish little against the well-seasoned scientific players of other days who landed on his spit-balls, knuckle balls and all others he had to offer with all the force that causing the horse-hair to soar to their brawny arms could muster, unheard of distances for singles, doubles and three-baggers. An interesting feature was the part played by the umpires who came in for the usual criticism on such occasions. Earl Hemming, who represented the married men was roundly denounced as a biased and a robber by the enraged youths, and highly commended as the very essence of truth and justice by the tender-hearted fathers. Joshua Black, the youthful representative of the defeated team was indiscriminately knocked down and trampled under foot by both teams, it becoming necessary to replace him with someone more substantial who could withstand the bumps of "careless, rough-neck" players.

Both teams had strengthened their lineups with the best that could be found, and the demonstration of each was an exhibition of courage and determination seldom seen on a diamond. The married men, however, took the lead in the fourth inning and maintained their advantage until an 8 to 7 victory perched on their banner. Four other games were played during the past week, the first being on Decoration Day when the regular team defeated a Dayton team by a score of 36 to 7. Three contests between two played on the home grounds Bellbrook and Lytle softball teams, and one at Lytle, resulted in three straight wins for the Bellbrook boys. The grounds at the new schoolhouse have been thoroughly renovated and arrangements are being made to play good teams from Greene and adjoining counties on Saturday afternoons.

AMOS M. TONKINSON DIES ON SATURDAY

Amos M. Tonkinson, 81, died at his home on N. Detroit St., Saturday afternoon at 1:20 o'clock following an illness of seven months from infirmities of age and a complication of diseases.

Mr. Tonkinson was born in Springfield and spent his early life there. He later moved to a farm near Cedarville and came to Xenia fifteen years ago. He was a member of the First M. E. Church. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Emma Tonkinson, and the following children, Roy, Dayton, Mont., Mrs. John Nash, Dayton, Mont., Mrs. Charles Watkins, Cedarville; Mrs. Lester Harmer, Mrs. R. C. Ledbetter and Mrs. L. W. Clouse, Xenia. A number of grandchildren and a brother, Matthew Tonkinson, Cedarville, N. M., also survive.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

The wolf and the lamb shall feed together, and the lion shall eat straw like the bullock: and dust shall be the serpent's meat. They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountains, saith the Lord.—Isaiah, lvi, 25.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS

Automobile thieves stole $24,000,000 worth of insured cars in 1929. As only about one third of that number were insured, it can be seen what a tremendous business this form of thieving has become.

A special committee of the national crime commission has reported that some uniform law should be adopted by the various states, to assist in putting down such thefts. The American people are paying a tremendous tax annually to the crooks, as the result of their failure to deal with this question vigorously.

Thousands of people are losing money also as the result of buying cars which prove afterward to have been stolen. In one large city it is stated that two thirds of the recovered automobiles are taken from persons who claim to have bought and paid for them from persons who asserted themselves to be their rightful owners. One would think that many of these people made no inquiry as to how the possessors of these cars came to have them.

Every state needs some system by which it shall be possible to trace cars through their registration, or by their motor or serial numbers, and determine if a car has had a history of honest ownership. It would seem good judgment, for a person who buys a used car from unknown parties, to take some pains to satisfy himself that they really own the car. Some purchasers do not seem to care, provided they get a low price.

There would be very few cars stolen in any city, if the owners were careful to lock them when they are left on the streets. Not many thieves bother to break open garages. The cars are stolen, because the owners encouraged theft, by presenting the crooks with an unlocked car. It only takes half a minute to lock a car, while you may hunt for weeks and not find it if it is stolen.

NOT TO BLAME

What Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, said recently, before the National Foreign Trade Council in defense of the tariff law was not sensational, and it probably will get much less public attention than some of the colorful political assaults on the law will receive. It certainly received less general publicity than such attacks have been getting. Nevertheless, Dr. Klein's words deserve careful attention from any person who wants to get all the facts about the effect on our foreign trade of the existing protective tariff wall.

"In nineteen representative countries all over the world, comprising most of our leading customers," said Dr. Klein, "our share of their import totals last year was almost 20 per cent. Our proportion in the trade of the same markets during 1924-27 averaged 20.7 per cent. It would certainly require a considerable amount of deliberate distortion to conjure out of those figures any conclusion as to the alleged 'devastating' reprisals against American wares. Preliminary figures for 1931 show almost exactly the same trend as that indicated for 1930."

American exports to the nineteen countries indicated by the assistant secretary of commerce have decreased, but only in proportion to the general decrease of the total amount of imported goods bought by those countries. American trade has suffered no extraordinary cut beyond that suffered by other exporting nations.

This indicates strongly that the falling off of American business abroad has been a natural and normal reflection of the general depression prevailing all over the civilized world, and that the new tariff law has not affected foreign buying of American wares and products very much one way or the other.

The showing relieves the tariff of the onus of having produced at least one horrible consequence charged against it by its political critics. But you won't catch the critics admitting it.

CRIME AND GIRL FRIENDS

The desire of raw and crude youth to impress itself on its girl friends, is one well recognized source of crime. There is a kind of inherent desire in the male animal, to strut around in pretentious poses before the female. Young men like to do lavish things, to impress the girls with the idea that they are very wonderful fellows, who can perform deeds of daring and adventure from which others draw back.

The young man of few mental resources can perhaps think of no other way to impress the girls than to spend money lavishly on them. So he enjoys treating them to costly eating, dancing, and often drinking. It flatters his pride to throw around the big bills. He must have a costly automobile to complete this impression. He buys the favor of the girls by his gifts of expensive jewelry and other presents.

As the path of legitimate earning of money is a slow one, many such young men are tempted to obtain the cash for such outlays in dishonest ways. Probably this accounts for a considerable section of existing crime.

Much dangerous automobile driving can be attributed to a similar cause. The bold sheiks like to impress the girls with their dashing skill, and their easy defiance of speed regulations and watchful cops. It is unfortunate that there are girls so utterly silly and senseless that they can be impressed in such ways. Irrational spending by their boy friends should be headed as a serious danger signal. It bodes no good to them. If they marry such a fellow, they should understand that the free spending may soon be diverted to other quarters. When a boy spends too much on them, they should also ask where he got the money, and insist on knowing.

GRADUATING CLOTHES

Girl graduates in many schools and colleges pass anxious hours over the question of their dresses for Commencement day and other festivities. The graduation expenses for girls in many public schools are so high as to constitute a burden on families of limited means.

It does not seem in accordance with the principles of democracy to place these burdens on such people. The community should encourage parents to give their daughters all the education they can make good use of. But if our customs force a penniless girl to ask her parents to go into debt or stint themselves to give her a final spurge of glory, there is something wrong about them.

Frequently the trouble is with these same parents of limited means, who are determined to give their daughters a grand blow-out regardless of expense. Influential families perform a service when they set the style of simple dressing for these occasions. Let the girls keep their swell clothes for less public affairs.

At this season of the year it may not be out of place to ask would flower venders to have a heart. Other people enjoy nature's beauty as well as they.

Bo-Broadway

—By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE—

NEW YORK — A swank East Side apparel shop in the Fancy Fifties guarantees in an advertisement to "make you some one in particular on any street . . . in fact," the ad, continues, "our clothes will put you in position to snub anyone, at any time."

DURANT SELECTIONS
Will Durant, the Dumbbell's Friend, has written a noo book. Simon & Schuster, of "Trader Horn" fame, published it—if you get what I mean.

Durant lists the world's ten "greatest minds" Confucius, Plato, Aristotle—that kind of a list. He omits Christ, as a "visionary," and does not include Master Will Shakespeare, who, he says, "must be classed as only a second-hand thinker."

Yass am!

ADD WONDERS OF MACHINE AGE

A five-ton truck which replaced a dozen Missouri mules in the service of a New York company took most of the ornery characteristics of its predecessors, first shaking up and scaring a trainload of commuters and then tying up an important division of a railroad for more than 15 minutes.

TRANSIENT ERROR

A New York commentator on an ankle-excision round town speaks of "the buses on Broadway lined up at the curb, with two or three sad people waiting to go to China town."

The "two or three sad people" in these buses are not waiting to go to China town. They are come-ons, paid 50 cents an hour by the bus proprietors to lure customers. People are diffident about climbing into an empty sight-seeing bus. The presence of "two or three sad people" makes things easier. When the bus begins to fill up the "sucker decoys" unostentatiously slip out to take up their vigil elsewhere.

OUT OF THE MOUTHS

And now cometh Doc. Harry Overstreet, psychologist, with the glad news that the modern heroines of fiction are not ladies of high character and noble mind.

The Doc might stop there, but his terminal facilities are bad, and he goes on to represent real women as "lacking in the ideals of modern progress," their "true inferiority exposed by their acceptance, again, of long skirts."

Have not the pleasure of the Doc's acquaintance; but I should judge him to be very young or very old.

Either end of the span, called Life, fits exactly the little girl's verdict after her first taste of asparagus: "One end's raw," she said, "and the other end's rotten!"

LABOR LOST

An out-of-town newspaper man, whom we'll call John Smith, after a vain tour of local city rooms in quest of a job, hired a man to carry a sign which said: "Hire John Smith." He posted the sandwich man in front of the newspaper office he desired to make connection with. The city editor, entering and leaving the building, would be sure to see the sign, send out to ascertain who John Smith was, and that would be that.

Unfortunately the city editor always used a rear door entering the building—and thus another genius was lost to the profession.

UNIMPORTANT IF TRUE

Bill Robinson, hooper of the Ebony and Ivory Belt, is said to carry a solid gold gat.

THE QUESTION BOX

—Central Press Wash. Bureau—

Answers to questions on information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, 1435 East Twelfth Street, Cleveland, O., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions, nor will the estimated value of old coins be given.

What do oysters eat?
For the most part the food of oysters consists of microscopic plants brought near by water currents.

SILVER IN MOVIE FILMS

About how much silver is used in the production of moving picture films?
The amount of silver used for this purpose is increasing annually. In 1925 the amount totaled approximately 158 tons.

TEST FOR LINEN

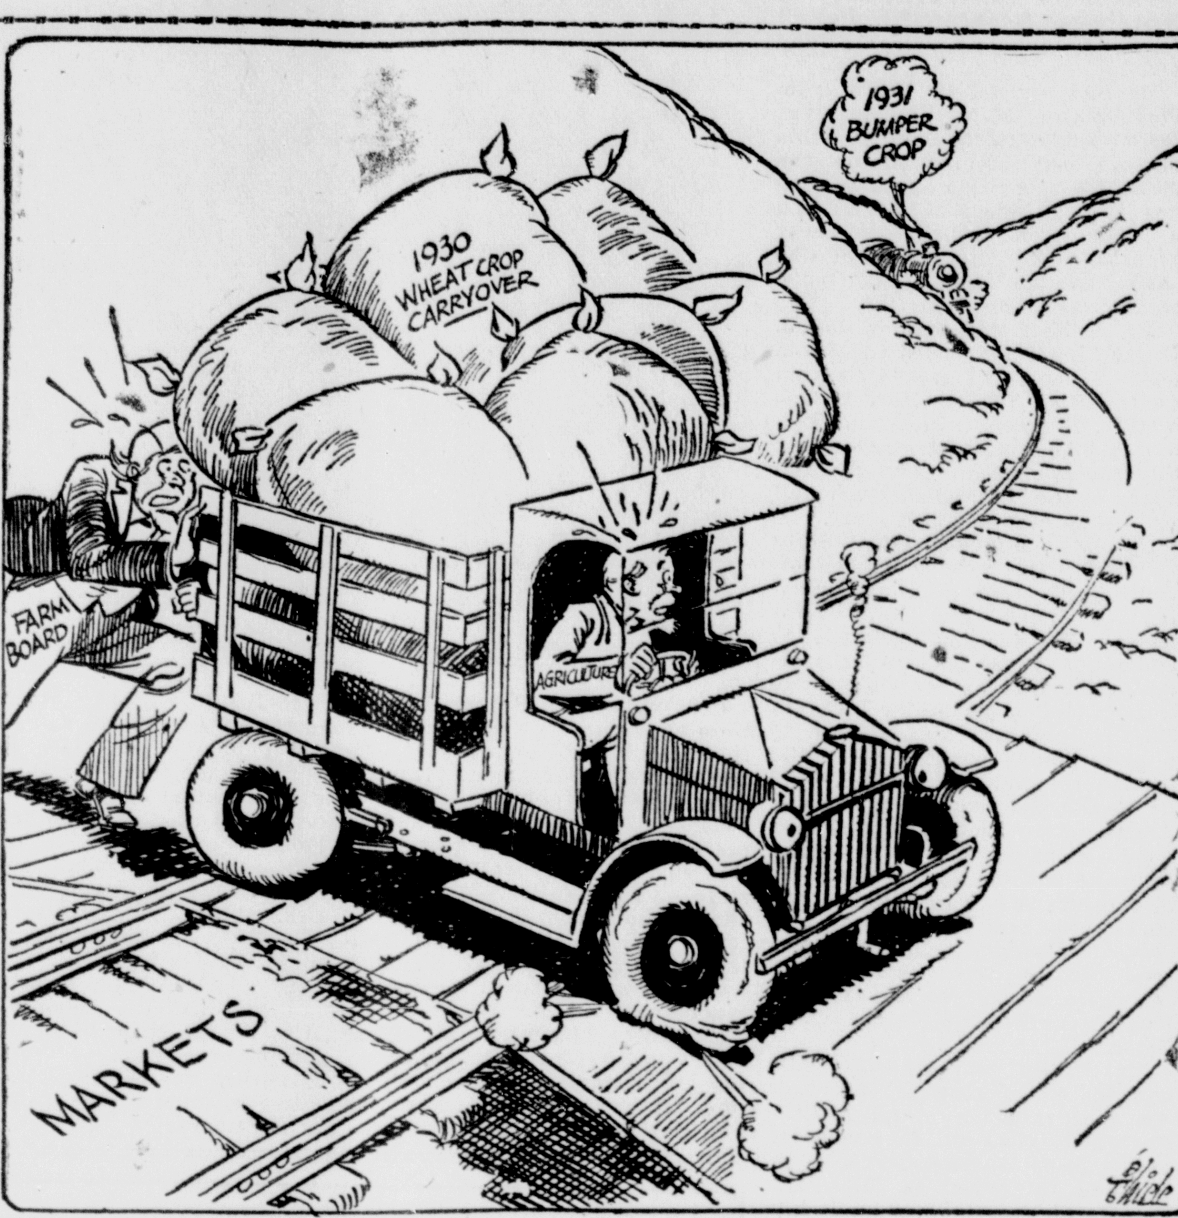

How can one tell if a piece of material is all linen?
Linen, when free from dressing, will become translucent when treated with olive oil. Linen also absorbs water immediately and feels heavier than cotton. When torn quickly, linen threads are smooth, while cotton threads curl.

ARLINGTON CEMETERY

Who was the original owner of the site that is now Arlington Cemetery?
This tract of land was formerly the home of Robert E. Lee, Confederate leader. During the Civil war the property was seized by the government, and was later used as the national cemetery.

ANXIOUS MOMENTS!

ECONOMIC FEDERATION WITH SOUTH AMERICA VIEWED AS POSSIBLE

—CHARLES P. STEWART—

WASHINGTON—Latin America is in a frame of mind, with the least bit of encouragement from Washington, for an economic hook-up with this country that virtually would amount to a United States of the New World.

Indeed, if given half a chance, some of the southern republics evidently intend to make the first overtures at the seventh Pan-American conference, to be held in 1933 at Montevideo, Uruguay. The program committee held a meeting here only a few days ago. At this session the subject of an inter-American customs agreement was mentioned as the one which of all others, the Latins are perhaps most anxious to discuss with their northern neighbor.

If Washington shies away from the suggestion, of course, it will not go into the agenda, but there is no question that the southern governments' representatives will urge it as strongly as they can.

The idea of a Pan-American customs union originally, I believe, was brought to the United States by Colonel Orestes Ferrara, when he came here as ambassador from Cuba late in 1928.

Foreign Minister Antonio Planet of Chile also has spoken in favor of it, though only recently; he has not been in office long.

Business men in the United States, maybe with the exception of a few in the Latin American trade, probably have not given it much consideration, but the proposition certainly will loom up like the Washington monument, should it become the theme of serious discussion at the Montevideo conference 18 months hence.

How much political as well as economic importance is attached to any move toward a preferential leveling of international tariff walls is illustrated by the European commotion in the last couple of months over the tentative customs bargain struck between Germany and Austria—an arrangement to which France especially objected so violently that it is tied up in the League of Nations now, on the question that the southern republics, making a dangerously powerful unit of the two erstwhile separate peoples.

Comparatively so small an affair having created such an outcry, it is easy to imagine the excitement which surely would ensue upon the first really convincing hint at what inevitably would be regarded as an economic federation of the Americas.

The form of the rest of the initial protest of the remainder of the world can readily be foreseen—the United States, like the Latin American republics, has, with every other country of the slightest commercial consequence, a "most favored nation treaty," by which the contracting parties undertake to extend to one another any trading concessions they may accord to a third power. These treaties are not perpetual, however, and could be dropped upon expiration.

Generally speaking, the United States and the 20 countries to the south could come to terms upon a free interchange of commodities with little worry concerning the protective issue—the "northern colossus" output consisting principally of manufactures, which it will be a long time before the Latin Americans can produce for themselves; the southern republics' chiefly of tropical raw material.

Cuban sugar and Argentine wheat would not be so exclusively complementary to Uncle Sam's home production, but Ambassador Ferrara has been quoted to the effect that even that problem would be worth solving for the sake of a "real union" from the Canadian border to Cape Horn.

Just how close a union the Cuban diplomat visualizes he has not, so far as I am aware, defined, but it is clear that he is not afraid of it, in any case.

The disposition for closer relations between the southern republics and the United States is not a new development with Colonel Ferrara, who has long been considered pro-Yankee in his views and undoubtedly was sent here largely for that reason.

It is a much more recent complex on the part of many of the other representatives in Washington from South, Central and the Insular Americas.

In fact, the change is hardly more than a matter of weeks in some instances, dating from Secretary of State Stimson's unmistakable declaration, during the latest Nicaraguan troubles, of the administration's disapproval of a policy of interference in the affairs of foreign nations merely because they are too small to resist it.

No one at all familiar with the Latin American temperament questioned that its reaction to this attitude would be most favorable, but the promptness of its response is surprising.

Baked Ham Scalloped Potatoes
Buttered Carrots Vegetable Salad
Lemon Pie Coffee

I am suggesting baked ham for dinner, thinking it is an excellent warm weather dish. Almost everyone likes cold sliced ham, especially if it is home cooked. And it does make the best sandwiches for the picnic. The very last bits may be added to creamed or scalloped potatoes or minced and put in the omelet.

Today's Recipes

Baked Ham—Ham, one teaspoon mustard, one-half cup brown sugar, one-half teaspoon paprika.

one-half cup vinegar, one-half cup water in which ham was cooked, whole cloves. Plunge the ham into water, boil ten minutes, then reduce the heat so the water just Remove the rind and sprinkle the fat surface with mustard and paprika. Pour over it the vinegar and water and bake in a slow oven, 300 degrees, for one hour. Baste frequently with some of the water in which the ham was cooked, then with the liquid in the pan. At the end of the hour sprinkle with brown sugar, dot with cloves and continue baking for another hour. The ham may be simmered the day before, then on the day you wish to use it may be slipped into the slow oven. Place in a covered roaster so the ham will not need so much basting.

Suggestions

Double Pants
When making Sonny Boy's little cotton suits, make the backs of the pants double. They will wear much longer and when they do wear through, the patch is right there, faded by the same number of washings.

Baby's Crib Blankets
Sew tape to corners of baby's crib blankets and tie to crib. They are free to move as they please without getting uncovered.

EVENING SKY HINTS FOR EAGER INQUIRERS

By ARTHUR DEV. CARPENTER

For a month following June 15 Corona Borealis (northern crown) is almost directly over head in the evening sky. The Corona is located about one and one-half hours east of Arcturus by 27 degrees north. Corona possesses no individual outstanding stars, but the graceful crown-like arrangement of its delicate gems, like the Pleiades, attracts the eye. The special name for the brightest star located in the front of the crown is Alphecca. Between Vega, farther to the north-east, and Corona, is the Square of Hercules, containing the famous "Globular Cluster of Hercules." The Cluster is located on the west side of the Square, one-third way down from the upper star.

Changing Water Not Enough

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.—

Swimming pools in any well regulated community are safe, but the dangers of swimming pools are very real and regulations to keep them safe should be rigidly carried out.

The greatest source of danger in a swimming pool is from other bathers. They contaminate the water more than it is contaminated at the source. Each bather in a pool should be inspected before getting in and those with skin diseases or infections should be excluded. The frequent occurrence of head colds and ear infections in children who use public and semi-public pools, can be traced to pool contamination.

Water used for pools around cities is usually contaminated both by sewage and the refuse of industrial plants. The latter is seldom a source of danger, but may be so in the case of certain industries. Both these sources of contamination, however, are eliminated in most cities with modern water works plants. The water is first drawn in large reservoirs and allowed to settle while exposed to sunlight. Sunlight is the greatest germ destroyer we have for clear water in large quantities. Sedimentation clears the reservoir water. The water is next run through city filters which removes 95 per cent of germs of all kinds.

Changing the water in a pool is not sufficient to keep it safe. It should also be sterilized chemically, the best substance for this being chlorine gas, one part to a million. This is the best method that has been devised.

Water properly treated is not dangerous or irritating to any part of the body. Some people believe they should use goggles when diving or swimming under water, but no harm is done by keeping the "pou-e" of Japan udo sado erate time. Chlorinated water does not harm the eyes, the nose or the mucous membranes of the mouth.

Those who have the advantages of a good municipal pool may be comforted by the advice recently published in "Hygiene."

"Many persons think that ocean bathing is especially clean, but it lacks the supervision found in better outdoor pools. A person never knows who has used the dressing rooms, whether they are contaminated by disease or not, and if he looks at the persons who are bathing in the ocean at most resorts he is unwilling to share a room with them. Often the bather hires a bathing suit that is not thoroughly sterilized. The beaches themselves are littered with food leavings and flies and insects abound. Because of the terribly crowded conditions at the popular resorts the supervision, in comparison with swimming pools, is not good. The mortality at these resorts is large, and the control of child bathers is less complete than in city pools."

Denies Good Times To Daughter

—By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE—

Do you remember Edward Lear's poem, "The Jumbies"? The Jumbies, you recall, "went to sea in a sieve," which everyone thought was a very foolish and wrong proceeding.

When they came back, "in 20 years or more," everyone said, "How tall they've grown," and added, "if we only live, we too will go to sea in a sieve."

Most of us go to sea in sieves some time in our lives, and all our friends and relatives say how silly and wicked we are. We manage to have a pretty good time in our adventures, however, even if they do seem pretty rash.

But no matter how many times we emulate the Jumbies ourselves, when it comes to letting our children do the same, we can't think of it. We are sure they will be sunk if they follow our example. Hence, we shut them out from the glorious adventures to their sorrow and harm.

"Dear Virginia Lee: I am a high school girl. I am very active in all sports and have received honors in them. My trouble is with my mother. I asked her to let me go out with some girls to a school affair."

"She will not let me go out once a month. I have lots of friends who ask me to go. My friends are not considered wild, either. I would not be so angry with her if she did not go out, but she was very popular."

"Don't you think she ought to let me go out once in awhile?"

"Brown Eyes."

I certainly do, Brown Eyes. What is her excuse for keeping you in the home when she had good times when she was your age? Did she come to harm, that she guards you so carefully? Ask her?

Tell her the best way to bring up children, according to modern educators, is to give them proper inhibitions in their infancy so that they will have self-control and good judgment, and then let them have a good deal of freedom, with the companionship and supervision of their parents.

I should think that she would be afraid that if she treats you like a baby now you are in high school, you will act like one later on when you gain freedom.

Johnnie: Dear child, did you ever stop to think that your parents might be right about this girl friend of yours being a bad influence over you? I am not saying she is, mind you. I know you think she is lovely, and you may be right. Not knowing the other side, I cannot tell about that. But parents sometimes are right about such matters.

No, don't run away from home. Make friends with other girls at school and go about with them. And be patient. If the girl friend is all right you parents may have a change of heart. Trust that they will see what is just in time, and if they never do as far as this girl is concerned, you will soon be of age and able to choose your own friends.

B. R. M.: If you'd love everything you know to show boys you are friendly and they still don't respond and ask you for dates, the only thing left is to be patient. You'll probably have your popular time later on. Sorry I can't suggest something else. Keep happy and have a good time with your girl friends and I am sure your time will come.

Tests Given Before Hair Changes

—By GLADYS GLAD—

At the present time there is more concentrated attention being given legislative regulations for raising standards and improving conditions in beauty shops than ever before. In almost all the states throughout the country, measures are being taken to protect women against injury through carelessness of beauty shop operators. California is especially to be commended on the progress it has made in this respect.

New York lags far behind California in its beauty show laws. But the New York board of health has recently passed regulations governing the sale and use of hair dyes in beauty salons and other establishments, that should be of vital interest to all women.

It is no longer possible for a woman to rush on impulse into a shop and have her hair dyed. According to the new regulations, a predisposition test of the action of the dye on the skin of the client must be made 24 hours before the dye can be administered to the hair. For some dyes may cause skin irritation on certain individuals. The test is usually made by painting a spot of the dye on the skin behind the ear. If no soreness or irritation results within 24 hours, if the test proves negative, the dyeing of the hair is supposed to be harmless.

It is interesting to note that there are few dyes excepted in this ruling. Those dyes containing animal derivatives are the ones that have caused so many cases of skin eruptions that the department of health has found the new measures necessary. Dyes with aniline bases are the ones, too, that do the most effective work, because the shades can be controlled much more easily.

There are a number of hair dyes on the market that contain iron, aluminum, copper and silver. Such dyes should not be used indiscriminately by women, for dyes that contain a metallic base quite often will react on the kidneys and the liver.

There are many reliable beauty shops that refuse, without any law demanding this duty to the customer, to use any kind of cosmetic or dye that is not guaranteed to be absolutely harmless. Such shops are the ones that women should patronize, not only for hair dyeing, but for every other service that they wish.

ANSWERS TO QUERIES

Cosmetics
Billie Jane: You should weigh about 112 pounds. I think that a soft ochre shade of powder, soft orange rouge, and light lipstick, would blend well with your coloring.

Reducing
Broad Hips: My method of reducing hips and thighs is too long to print in this brief space. However, it is contained in detail in a booklet on "The New Figure." You are about 14 pounds overweight.

Puffy Under Eyes
E. L.: Puffs under the eyes usually result from lack of sleep or ill health. If you obtain the required eight hours of sleep every night, I'd advise you to consult a competent physician.

Complexion
Clem and Patsy Jean: My method of treating blackheads and pimples is fully outlined in my "Beauty Culture" booklet. I regret that the procedure is too long to print here.

EDITOR'S NOTE: While it is impossible for Miss Glad to answer beauty questions by mail, she will be happy to send you her pamphlets on "The New Figure" and "Beauty Culture" if you will write her, care of this paper, enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope and 10 cents in coin for each, to cover cost of printing and handling. For her articles on "Care of the Feet and Legs," 2 cents in coin for each and a self-addressed, stamped envelope are required. Personal questions on beauty will be answered through Miss Glad's daily column.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED

Slowly but surely the number of softball double-headers remaining to be played is diminishing and local teams are full of hope that before the summer is over they may yet play one complete nine-inning game instead of two seven-inning contests in one evening.

Players had better keep their fingers crossed, however, because another long spell of wet weather may be in prospect and the double-header business will start all over again.

Teams are not quite out of the double-header woods as it is, because at present, meaning Friday afternoon at 4:09 o'clock, four twin bills remain to be played in the National and two in the American League.

The Red Wings must play two games with the Critter and Lang Chevrolets, and the Graham Paints two games each with Wood's Barbers and the Critter. The Downtown Country Club has caught up with the schedule, having played two straight double-headers.

In the American League Central High and St. Brigid must play two straight double-headers the next two times they meet, as Thursday night's game marked the first time these two teams have met.

"Mo" Hymen, youngest of the trio of brothers, who is a collector of note, did not let slip an opportunity to add to his collection of autographs when he spent a recent weekend in Chicago. Attending a Chicago Cub baseball game, "Mo" sneaked down to the Cub's dugout and wormed autographs out of "Foostle" Blair, utility infielder, and Danny Taylor, outfielder. He would doubtless have gotten the signatures of everyone else, including Owner Wrigley, if the ushers had let him stay a little longer, as he is a persistent sort of a person.

You know, of course, of the tradition that balls knocked into the stands at major league baseball games invariably disappear into someone's pocket and are lost for good. Well, a ball was lost during a recent softball game at Cox Field. The funny thing was, however, that everyone knew where the ball was but no one could get it. Hit with tremendous force, the ball rolled to the line of autos parked in deep center field, and disappeared from view under one of the cars. Fielders searched frantically but it had dropped entirely from sight. It was uncanny. Finally, it was discovered the ball had bounced into the crank-case or some other mechanism under the machine, and was unretrievable.

We notice that our good friend "Jack" Murray, a contemporary scribe, has taken unto himself a wife. Jack has been sports editor of the Daily Call at Piqua for four and one-half years and is now about to test the theory of two living cheaper than one.

PRODUCE FIVE RUNS IN FIFTH TO CLAIM VICTORY ON FRIDAY

Brilliant Fielding Helps
Champs Take Game
6 To 1

One prosperous rally in the fifth inning when six Lang Chevrolets ran brought the Lang Chevrolets a 6 to 1 triumph over Wood's Barbers in a National League softball game at Cox Field Friday night.

Langs swamped the Barbers, 15 to 3, in the first round of play, but the Woods team, playing with a revamped lineup, gave the city champions plenty of opposition Friday night.

Brilliant fielding by the league leaders, particularly by Lee Ruse, shortstop, who was all over the diamond, gathering up difficult grounders and making bullet-like throws to first, kept the Barbers from becoming threatening on offense.

Harry Williams, pitching for the champs, allowed only four hits, two of which were made by Bob Shaw, and was seldom in trouble.

Clarence Kelter started on the mound for Woods, and after pitching well for four innings, weakened in the fifth.

Alfred Townsley, Cedarville College athlete and a newcomer on the roster of the Barbers, hurled the last four rounds and had the Lang batters eating out of his hands. He permitted no runs and allowed only two hits, both of which were infield rollers which the batters beat out to first.

Reeves, another new player obtained by Woods, looked well at first base.

Langs scored once in the first inning when Bell singled, went to second and third on passed balls, and crossed the plate when Seal hit to short and Holton made a wild peg home.

The big inning for Langs was the fifth when five runs were scored. Davis led off with a single and Patterson hit a home run over the fence.

Murrell's head in left field, Fuller, Corb and Williams followed with singles. Bell and Ruse were retired on grounders but Seal hit for one base and five runs were in.

The Barbers escaped a shutout by tallying one run in the sixth. With one down, Townsley walked, went to second on an out at first, and crossed the plate when Seal hit to short and Holton made a wild peg home.

The champions obtained a total of thirteen hits and Bell, Ruse, Seal, Davis and Corb each got two. Lineups:

JAMESTOWN WIN IS HELPED BY ERRORS

Six errors played a leading role in the 10 to 3 victory registered by the Jamestown Oil Co. softball team over the newly-reorganized Mt. Tabor Flyers in a game on Friday night.

Trout, Jamestown pitcher, permitted ten hits, one a home run by Fudge, short fielder, with the bases empty in the ninth, but was difficult to hit with runners on base.

Thomas, Mt. Tabor hurler, gave the visitors fourteen blows. Mt. Tabor will meet Rosemoor in a return game on the Mt. Tabor diamond Monday night. Score by Innings:

CEDARVILLE LOSES TO PAINTERSVILLE

Undaunted by the fact their eight-game winning streak was rudely shattered by the All-Stars the other evening, the Paintersville Famous Autos started another Friday night on their own diamond by trouncing a Cedarville softball team, 10 to 1.

Marvin Borst, Cedarville College coach, who pitched for the visiting team, was shelled for eighteen hits, including a triple and home run by Pickering and a circuit blow by "Atlas" Smith, Paintersville hurler, who allowed only six blows and fanned ten batters. The Autos made four errors and Cedarville had two wabbles.

RAY HENLEY SHOWS HEELS AGAIN AT GREENVILLE; SETS RECORD

Making his debut as a three-year-old, Ray Henley, b. g., by Peter Henley, was driven by Joe Hagler, his Xenia trainer, to a straight heat victory in the 2:15 pace valued at $400, feature offering on the closing day's card of the Ohio Short Ship Circuit harness meeting at Greenville, O., Friday afternoon.

Not only did Hagler's speedster defeat a crack field of seven other pacers, but the sensational wiggler clipped a quarter of a second off the Greenville race track record by winning the second heat in 2:05 1/2.

Ray Henley won nine straight races over Ohio half-mile tracks as a two-year-old without losing a single heat last year, and at Greenville Friday the great pacer took up this record where he left off by winning the first two heats and clinching the race. The pacer has a mark of 2:08 and he won the first heat in exactly this time.

Hagler withdrew his pacer from the third heat, which was won by Jake Worthy in 2:08 1/2, after this horse had finished second and third in the first two miles.

A large number of Xenians and other race followers from Greene County attended the Greenville race Friday for the purpose of watching Ray Henley perform, and they were not disappointed.

The barrier system of starting made a distinct hit with the fans in the grandstand.

The horses now move to Marion, O., for a race meeting next week.

CLUB MEMBERS AND LEADERS IN MEETING HERE; VISIT GAZETTE

One hundred and twenty-eight 4-H club officers and leaders attended an annual conference Friday at the Court House.

Miss Margaret Lackey, Jamestown, Mrs. Leroy Jacobs, Clinton, Mrs. George Bootes, New Jasper, Roger Rogers, Ross and Robert Ferguson, Alpha, were elected to the county club executive committee for the coming year.

The conference opened at 10 o'clock with Miss Elizabeth Hardy leading the group with games. Following this Beatrice McClellan led a number of club songs.

A general discussion of the club calendar for 1931 was taken up by the group and plans were made for conducting the health program, demonstrations, state, district and county camp, fair exhibits, and club congress. At noon a picnic luncheon was held at Shawnee Park.

Group conferences of the leaders.

NEW YORK, June 6.—Friday's reaction from the peak of the week's rally was carried into a dull and featureless week-end session today, and many of the speculative favorites dropped off 1 to 4 points. Though the volume of trading was comparatively small there was no sign of a let-up in the selling wave from the first tap of the opening bell to the closing period. Many of the favorites finishing at or near the bottom. Profit-taking and new short selling by the professionals accounted for the bulk of the activity of the short session.

MYSTERY INVOLVES DEATH OF MERCHANT

BUYRUS, O., June 6.—The mysterious murder of Sherman Stevens, Tiro feed dealer and filling station operator, today seemed doomed to go into the records as an unsolved crime as baffled authorities admitted their inability to find a motive for the slaying or any clue to its perpetrators.

Stevens was "put on the spot" under the glare of a street light in front of his filling station by unknown persons who called at his home late Wednesday night on the pretext of wanting to purchase gasoline.

The murderers vanished completely without trace or clue. Two theories were evolved by authorities seeking a solution to the crime. One was that Stevens was a victim of a bootleg feud. The other was that he was slain by a grudging neighbor. Neither theory, however, has found substantiation.

The Theater

There will be whoopee-making at the Orphium Theater during the coming week, starting when Eddie Cantor, the original whoopee-maker himself, makes whoopee on the Orphium screen in that United Artists classic of fun, "Whoopie."

The piece was transferred from the New York stage to the Hollywood sound stages, where it was presented by Florenz Ziegfeld and Samuel Goldwyn, and gives the main streets a touch of Broadway frolic, with comedy and music, all done in technicolor.

The original opus was founded on the stage play by Owen Davis, "The Nervous Wreck" and was directed for the movies by Thornmoustache and begins to practice that sort of polished villainy that he exhibited in the Little Theater Guild play, "East Lynne," you had better hide Our Little Nelly in the attic before dirt is done her.

Hy on the stage looked like a John Held engraving of the barber shop lounge who is out to ogle the new milliner. He was so villainous that patrons had to be escorted for fear he would be shot during some of his villainous acts. All he needed was to have his hair parted down the back.

Judge George Thorne, a newcomer to Guild productions, brought a finished historic voice to the stage in his first role. His deep tones defied the Opera House acoustics.

He is assisted by Manor Hunt, Paul Gregory, John Hurford, Ethel "Snappy" Shut-a, who, by the way, is the wife of George Olsen, the band man Spencer Charters, Chief Caulpican, Albert Hackett, Will H. Phillips, Walter Law and Marilyn Morgan. The picture will show here four days—Sunday, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

"A Lady Surrenders," the picture Uncle Carl Laemmle's Universal made from John Erskine's novel, "Sincerity," will be the Orphium attraction for Thursday and Friday, featuring, as it does, seven stars of the silver sheet. The story is smart and the movie bright and interesting. Its all-star cast includes Conrad Nagel, Genevieve Tobin, Basil Rathbone, Rose Hobart, Carmel Myers, Vivian Oakland, Edgar Norton, Lena Malena and Franklin Pangborn. John Stahl did the directing.

A Tiffany production, "The Land of Missing Men" in which Bob Steele is featured, plays the Orphium one day, Saturday, to wind up the week. Al St. John, the veteran comedian; Edward Dunn, Caryl Lincoln, Al Jennings, Fern Emmett, Emilio Fernandez, Noah Hendricks, C. R. Dufau and S. S. Simons are in the cast.

AL CAPONE FURNISHES $50,000 BOND

EVASION OF INCOME TAX LATEST CHARGE AGAINST GANG KING

Facing Heavy Fine,
Possible Term In
Federal Pen

CHICAGO, June 6.—Al Capone, America's number one gangster, was under $50,000 bond today for income tax evasion and sadly contemplated that money talks but in this case talked back.

Three years of investigation crystallized into three hours of fast action yesterday and "Scarface Al" discovered that federal investigators, scores of them, had been prying into his most secret affairs and that he owed the government back taxes of $215,000. He is also liable to an $80,000 fine and if found guilty on all twenty-two counts contained in the indictments returned against him by the federal grand jury he may have to serve fifty years in Leavenworth penitentiary.

At 2 o'clock the indictments were returned and three hours later, Al, in company with lawyers and bondsmen surrendered and was released.

Grand jury proofs indicated that Al had a net income of $1,038,654 from 1924 to 1929 inclusive but this was not regarded as being the sum of the millions he is popularly supposed to have made from his various rackets, beer the chief one. Capone is now under $5,000 bail to the federal court on a charge of contempt of court which may bring him a six-month's sentence before the present case comes to trial.

"There's nothing to it," was Al's comment on reports that he would plead guilty in the hope of getting a light sentence.

United States attorneys under George E. O. Johnson who has been extraordinarily successful in prosecuting gangsters through their illegal profits said the case against Capone was "airtight."

The amounts listed in the indictment, a document sixty-four pages long, have been definitely checked and traced, although other huge sums may have been hidden away. Meanwhile, Sam Guzik, Capone lieutenant, started for Leavenworth to begin a year and a day sentence for income tax violation also. Ralph Capone, Al's brother, has an appeal pending from a similar conviction.

VETERAN TEACHER CLAIMED BY DEATH

COLUMBUS, O., June 6.—The body of Mrs. Pauline Ashton McKee, 90, former Portsmouth school teacher and a native of New Castle, Pa., was to be removed today to Portsmouth for burial Monday.

Mrs. McKee, who taught school for forty-five years at U. S. Grant School, Portsmouth, where a bronze tablet has been erected in her memory, died yesterday at the home here of her niece, Mrs. Effie Russell, after an illness of several years.

CONSTABLE FREED OF MURDER QUITS

PORTSMOUTH, O., June 6.—Recently acquitted of second degree murder in the shooting of a youth he sought to arrest, Constable Roy Downing of Waverly today had presented his resignation.

Authorities, following an investigation into the death of Gale Pendleton, 20, who was shot May 4, declared the killing unjustified and charged Downing with murder. The jury, however, returned a verdict of not guilty.

VIVIAN J. FAGIN, POLITICIAN, DIES

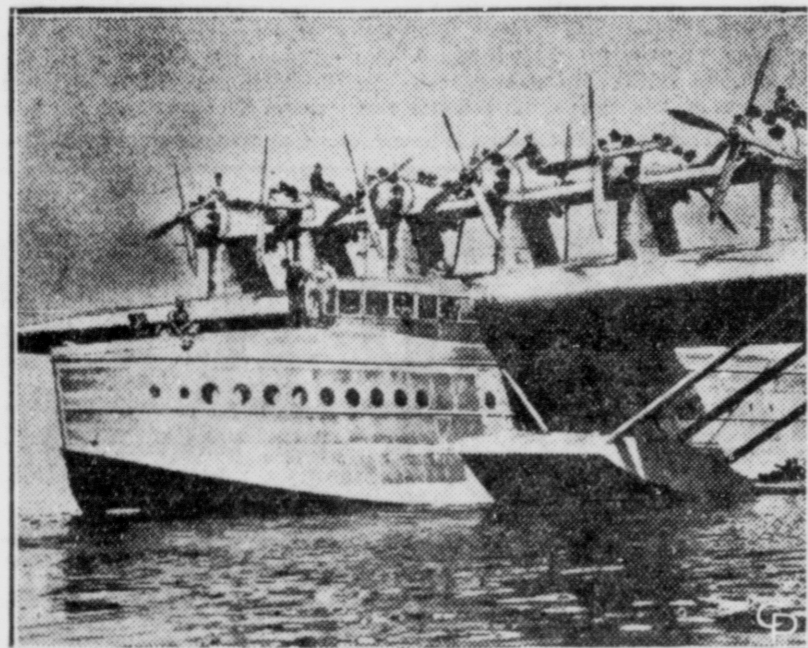

CINCINNATI, O., June 6.—Funeral services for Vivian J. Fagin, 75, former United States marshal for the southern district of Ohio and one of the colorful political figures in the history of Cincinnati, will be conducted Monday afternoon, according to arrangements completed today.

Fagin died yesterday following an illness of three weeks. He is survived by his widow, one son and two daughters.

NAUTILUS IN FOG

BOSTON, June 6.—The submarine Nautilus, crossing the Atlantic preparatory to an attempt to go under the ice cap at the North Pole, was running today through a dense fog 238 miles east of Cape Cod Light, according to a radio gram to eastern coastguard headquarters from the coastguard cutter Ponchartrain, timed 8 a. m. E. S. T.

DO-X REACHES GOAL IN OCEAN HOP

Landing on the island of Fernando de Noronha off the South American coast, the 50-ton German air-liner DO-X has successfully completed its long-delayed transatlantic flight, carrying thirteen persons and piloted by Captain Friedrich Christiansen. It made the crossing from Porto Praia, Cape Verde islands, in fifteen hours and thirty-three minutes. From Fernando de Noronha the big plane was to fly the 200 miles to Natal, and thence to Rio de Janeiro. Map shows the route followed.

WHAT DID GOVERNOR OF NEW YORK SAY TO GOVERNOR OF OHIO?

Political Followers Believe Next Race
Was Discussed

COLUMBUS, O., June 6.—Political Ohio speculated today about what was said between Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York and Governor George White of Ohio in a conference at the executive mansion here last night.

Despite declarations by Governor Roosevelt that "my trip is not of a political nature," followers of the game of politics could not help believing that Roosevelt's attempt to gain the Democratic nomination for President was the principal subject of conversation.

Besides the two governors at dinner in Mr. White's executive mansion were United States Senator Robert J. Bulkley, of Cleveland, himself often mentioned as a presidential candidate; Henry G. Brunner of Mansfield, chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, and William W. Durbin of Kenton, also a well-known Democrat.

Politicians saw considerable significance in the meeting because Governor White, chairman of the Democratic executive committee when James M. Cox of Dayton was candidate for President, has been repeatedly mentioned as a possible running mate for Roosevelt in the 1932 campaign.

Eleven years before, when Democratic candidate for vice president, Roosevelt made a similar visit at the governor's residence to confer with Mr. Cox, then governor of Ohio and the Democratic presidential nominee.

At that meeting Mr. White was selected as the party chairman for the approaching campaign. Roosevelt's visit at the latter's estate at Trail's End at Dayton, he said, "is just a visit with an old friend," and beyond that he would say no more than he said about the conference with Governor White.

Politicians in Governor Roosevelt's home state, it was said today, regard Governor White as a dry who would prove an ideal vice presidential candidate on a ticket with Roosevelt, an avowed wet.

White, New Yorkers said, knows politics and conventions, having been early in the campaigns for Woodrow Wilson, Cox and John W. Davis. In Alfred E. Smith's campaign he was not very active because he had previously pledged to help Roosevelt.

Following the parley with Governor White last night, Governor and Mrs. Roosevelt departed by train for Albany.

NEW YORK GOVERNOR VISITS ANTIOCH ON TRIP TO COLUMBUS

Roosevelts And Party
Inspect Buildings At Yellow Springs

Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, considered a potential Democratic nominee for President in 1932, spent nearly an hour at Antioch College in Yellow Springs early Friday afternoon.

Accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt, James A. Farley, chairman of the New York State Democratic central committee, Judge Robert S. Marx, Cincinnati, secretaries and newspaper men, the governor stopped at Antioch while en route to Columbus, where he dined Friday night with Governor George White before returning to Albany, N. Y., after having attended the conference of governors at French Lick, Ind.

Members of the party, who occupied two automobiles, had previously been the luncheon guests of former Governor James M. Cox and his family at Trailside in Dayton, and they were escorted on the trip to Columbus by two Montgomery County deputy sheriffs on motorcycles.

Arriving in Yellow Springs at 2:30 o'clock the party was met by Dr. Austin M. Patterson, vice-president.

CINCINNATI, O., June 6.—State Senator David P. Lorbach, Democratic anti-prohibitionist, will oppose John B. Hollister, wealthy Republican attorney, for the congressional vacancy caused by the death of Speaker Nicholas Longworth, it was practically assured today.

Former Fifi Stillman On Trip With Young Husband After Hasty Marriage

NEW YORK, June 6.—While his vivacious former wife, Anne, was honeymooning with her youthful new husband, Fowler McCormick, James A. Stillman, former president of the National City Bank, sailed for Europe today on the White Star liner Olympic.

Thus was written an amazing new chapter in the most sensational divorce story in the annals of American wealth and society. Mrs. McCormick is past fifty. Her husband is 32. James A. Stillman is past sixty.

Fowler and Fifi Potter Stillman McCormick were tucked away today at an Oceanside cottage in East Hampton, L. I., accompanied by only a few servants. Both appeared happy and anxious to escape from outside contacts. Neither would express any other than good wishes for Stillman. And in his stateroom on the Olympic, the millionaire banker expressed the same sentiments.

Smiling as genially as ever, Stillman said he wished his former wife and her young husband all the luck in the world.

"I am not married and do not intend to get married," said Stillman in response to a query. "As for my former wife, she is thoroughly capable of speaking for herself." There was a bit of a chuckle accompanying this.

Asked if he was surprised at the news of his former wife having married young Fowler McCormick, Stillman said: "I am not surprised at anything these days."

Despite Stillman's attitude as to his future marital plans, he appeared much concerned when an employee of the steamship company referred to "your other cabin."

"I am traveling alone," Stillman hastened to add. Stillman gave the impression of a boy released for a holiday. "I am glad it is all over," he said. "It is not pleasant to have one's private affairs become the concern of the public. The publicity which has been my lot is naturally embarrassing. I wish my former wife nothing but the best of luck and much happiness."

A few hours before Stillman sailed his former wife and her husband, Fowler McCormick, were located at East Hampton. "We are going to stay around

GERMANY ASKS RELIEF FROM REPARATIONS IN OFFICIAL MANIFESTO

Declares Young Plan
Has Failed To Help
Undue Burden

BERLIN, June 6.—An official demand for Germany's relief "from the unbearable burden of reparations" was made today in a government manifesto accompanying publication of Chancellor Heinrich Brüning's emergency financial decree.

"The German people," the manifesto declared, "have reached their limit of privations. The assumptions on which the Young plan has proved erroneous. The Young plan has failed to bring the alleviations which were promised. Germany's economic and financial condition demands relief from the unbearable burden of reparations."

The manifesto made no actual mention of reparations revision and proposed no actual steps for amelioration of present conditions. Issued simultaneously with Chancellor Heinrich Brüning's visit to Chequers for a conference with Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald of Britain, the manifesto was interpreted as an official bid by the German government for international co-operation.

"We have done our utmost to meet the obligations growing out of the war," the manifesto continued. "To this end we took extensive advantage of foreign help. The German government is now obliged to proclaim to the world that the limit of the privations we can impose on our people has been reached."

This statement indicated Germany had decided against incurring any additional loans for the purpose of meeting reparations payments. This obligation in the past has been met almost entirely by this means, necessitating imposition of heavy taxes on the people.

AUTOIST KILLED

MONROE, Mich., June 6.—John Lop, 35, a steel worker of Holiday's Cove, W. Va., was dead today from injuries received a mile north of here yesterday when his automobile was struck by a Michigan Central passenger train.

Engineer William Fox, Xenia, applied the brakes. Bowermaster was hurrying to catch up with a friend walking ahead of him along the railroad right-of-way, and was too near the rails. The locomotive brushed him to one side.

The injured man was removed by James Cowan, who saw the mishap, in his auto to the office of Dr. Marshall Best. An examination showed Bowermaster had received cuts and bruises on the left side of the body from the shoulder to the hips, minor scalp lacerations and cuts on both hands, but no bones were broken.

HARDING KIN WEDS

Marion O., home of the late President Harding, is gasping over the marriage of Miss Jean De Wolfe, above, granddaughter of the late Mrs. Harding. Just as society folk were preparing to attend Miss De Wolfe's wedding to David J. Morgan of Toledo, she quietly married Charles M. Well, Marion furniture dealer. A pretentious wedding had been planned, then postponed, when the bride suddenly changed her mind and married Well.

ROUTE TO EAST IS CONSIDERED

NEW YORK, June 6.—Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh may fly to China and Japan by the way of the east, instead of the west, it was reported today.

Colonel Lindbergh, who announced the route had not been decided on, said he would not take off for three weeks or a month.

If the eastern route was selected, the Lindberghs would take a course across Greenland and Spitzbergen to Siberia and thence to China. The great circle flight, the shortest distance to Peiping from New York flying eastward, would bring them close to the North Pole.

It is possible that the Lindberghs would be in the vicinity of the polar region at the same time the submarine Nautilus, carrying Sir Hubert Wilkins on an Arctic expedition, plans to meet the Graf Zeppelin.

PEDESTRIAN HIT BY TRAIN ALONG RAILS NEAR THIRD STREET

Elmer Bowermaster Is Injured When Hit
By Pennsy Train

Elmer Bowermaster, 25, of 4 Miami Ave., laborer, was painfully, but not seriously injured when he was struck from the rear and knocked ten feet by a Pennsylvania passenger train as he was walking toward the depot alongside the railroad tracks by The Eavey Co. at Detroit and Third Sts., Saturday morning.

Said to be somewhat deaf, Bowermaster declared he did not hear the train approaching, although witnesses said the bell clanged and the train whistle blew six times.

Engineer William Fox, Xenia, applied the brakes. Bowermaster was hurrying to catch up with a friend walking ahead of him along the railroad right-of-way, and was too near the rails. The locomotive brushed him to one side.

The injured man was removed by James Cowan, who saw the mishap, in his auto to the office of Dr. Marshall Best. An examination showed Bowermaster had received cuts and bruises on the left side of the body from the shoulder to the hips, minor scalp lacerations and cuts on both hands, but no bones were broken.

The passenger train, running between Springfield and Chicago, was headed toward the local Pennsylvania station, the accident taking place a few feet from the point where the tracks cross the sidewalk on the west side of Detroit St.

POLICEMAN DIES IN CRASH HURRYING TO SCENE; SEVEN HURT

Workmen Trapped Underground When Wall Of
New Construction Work Collapses; Patrol
Wagon Wrecked Near Scene

PHILADELPHIA, June 6.—Trapped in a subterranean cave-in on a building construction project which bore every resemblance to a mine entombment, five workmen met death, four other laborers and three policemen were injured, and a policeman, rushing to the scene, was killed today.

The dead: William Hicks, Thomas Ebbs, William Hayes, S. Walker and Leroy Knight, workmen, and Patrolman Elmer Patterson, 54. Patterson was killed and his fellow officers were injured when a patrol wagon was wrecked while speeding to the succor of the trapped men.

The cave-in occurred seventy feet below the street level in the heart of the business district at 12th and Market Sts., where excavation was under way for the new thirty-two-story Philadelphia Saving Fund Society building.

The injured are: George Jones, 31; Milton Haynes, 38; Nelson King and Leslie Dowd, 24, all construction workers, and Policemen George Coggins, 40; Anthony Gentile, 35, and Eugene Patterson.

An immediate investigation into the collapse of a wall adjoining the excavation, which buried the men under tons of bricks, mortar and other debris, was begun.

Thousands of office workers in the downtown section, aroused by the wailing sirens of police and fire apparatus, crowded around the wreckage. Police lines were quickly established. The scene of the accident is almost in front of the Reading Railway station, in the heart of the city.

Joseph Donato, 34, foreman of the laborers, narrowly escaped death. As the towering mass crashed down, Donato leaped to safety, escaping the main body of the crumpled wall although showered with debris.

The two men were badly shaken when the ship in which they were flying to Panama nosed over into the ground, breaking the propeller. They said they would continue their journey as soon as a new propeller reaches them from Mexico City.

CEDARVILLE COLLEGE ALUMNI OFFICERS ELECTED AT MEET

James McMillan, manager of the Tri-County Herald, weekly newspaper at Osborn, was elected president of the Cedarville College Alumni Association for 1931 at the annual alumni luncheon and business meeting in Alford gymnasium Friday afternoon. Earl Collins, Cedarville, is the retiring president.

Other new officers selected are: Probate Judge S. C. Wright, first vice president; Miss Lucile Johnson, second vice president; Miss Carrie Rife, Cedarville, recording secretary and treasurer, and Miss Mabel Stormont, Cedarville, corresponding secretary.

Lloyd Confair, Cedarville, was elected to serve during the coming year as the alumni representative on the college board of trustees.

A permanent memorial fund started by the association in 1910 was re-established under the name of the Frances McChesney memorial fund in memory of Miss Frances McChesney, daughter of Dr. W. R. McChesney, president of Cedarville College, who died recently and who was corresponding secretary of the alumni organization during the past year. The fund, to which alumni make voluntary contributions, now amounts to more than $4,000.

Covers for 250 persons were laid at a luncheon served at 12:30 o'clock, which preceded the business meeting. Later a program of music and informal talks were presented.

Earl Collins, retiring president, asked as toastmaster and welcomed members of the 1931 Cedarville College graduating class, who were guests at the banquet, into the alumni association. James Stormont, senior class president, gave the response.

Brief talks were given by President McChesney, the Rev. William H. Tilford and Attorney J. A. Finney, Xenia, and the Rev. Harold Hammond, Bellefontaine, O. The Misses Eleanor and Lucile Johnson, Cedarville, sisters, contributed vocal music to the program.

The class of 1909, with five members present, had the greatest number of representatives at the meeting, while the earliest graduating class represented was the class of 1897.

The alumni also voted to work out a definite schedule for class reunions in future years.

ALFRED D. MCNEFF, FORMER XENIAN, IS CLAIMED BY DEATH

Alfred D. McNeff, 38, died at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. George McNeff, 682 S. Detroit St., shortly before 9 o'clock Friday night.

He had arrived in Xenia from Fort Stanton, N. M., Sunday night for a visit of thirty days with his parents, but became ill on the train. His condition became serious Tuesday when he lapsed into a coma from which he never aroused. A complication of diseases, culminating in uremic poisoning, caused his death.

Mr. McNeff was born in Xenia, March 27, 1893, attended the Xenia public schools and graduated from Central High School with the class of 1912. He was an all-around athlete in high school, playing end on the football team, forward and guard on the basketball team and pitcher for the baseball team.

He later attended Ohio State University one year and then organized his own orchestra, playing in hotels and amusement parks. He was an accomplished violinist and was leader of the orchestra, known as the Ohio State Quintet. When his health failed in 1915 he obtained appointment to a government position with the marine hospital of the U. S. Public Health Service at Ft. Stanton, August 12 of that year, and was employed as voucher clerk in the office at the time of his death. He also operated a watchmaking and repair business at Ft. Stanton.

He served as notary public and was treasurer of the post baseball team. He maintained his membership in the First M. E. Church in Xenia.

Mr. McNeff was an only child and his visit home at this time was the first since the fall of 1929. Funeral services will be conducted at the home Monday at 2:30 p. m. followed by burial in Woodland Cemetery. Friends may call anytime after 3 o'clock Sunday.

Mrs. Walter Wike is confined to her home on High St., because of illness.

CEDARVILLE STUDENTS RANK HIGH

Cedarville High School students were showered with honors during the recent state scholarship contests, placing six among the winners in various subjects.

The record of Cedarville helped put Greene County seventh among the eighty-eight counties of the state. The Cedarville winners shown above are:

1—Wendell Murphy, 12, who took third place in ninth-year English in county classification of schools.

2—Mary Margaret McMillan, who won first place in tenth-year English regardless of classification. It was the second year she won this honor.

3—Justin Hartman was named in the upper 1 per cent of the 55,000 pupils in the state in the eighth grade test.

4—Christina Jones awarded honorable mention in ninth-year English.

5—Carmel Hostetler, winner of tenth place in eleventh-year English.

6—Ruth Kimble, winner of third place in tenth-year English in county classification of schools.

Miss McMillan, Miss Kimble, Miss Jones, Miss Hostetler and Murphy are pupils of Mrs. Hazel Edwards, English teacher. H. D. Furst is superintendent of schools at Cedarville.

Bellbrook News

There was "weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth" on last Wednesday evening when the broken-down Patriarchs of the village with their white, flowing Rips Van Winkle whiskers and their systems over-running with confidence, bloomed forth like a century plant, and after a week's rest, with little or no practice, by a small margin, overthrew the last hope of the heedless youths who had never passed through the "fiery furnace" of matrimony.

From the fact that the third game between the married men and the single men was to be a test of strength to decide the championship of the Miami Valley, caused a large crowd to be present—all the business of the town being suspended until after the game.

The fight was a royal one from the time the umpire called "play ball" until darkness began to throw its long shadows over the battle field. The big bare-footed boy on the mound for the single men, had perfect control, but could accomplish little against the well-seasoned.

Both teams had strengthened their lineups with the best that could be found, and the demonstration of each was an exhibition of courage and determination seldom seen on a diamond. The married men, however, took the lead in the fourth inning and maintained their advantage until an 8 to 7 victory perched on their banner. Four other games were played during the past week, the first being on Decoration Day when the regular team defeated a Dayton team by a score of 36 to 7. Three contests between two players on the home grounds Bellbrook and Lytle softball teams, and one at Lytle, resulted in three straight wins for the Bellbrook boys. The grounds at the new schoolhouse have been thoroughly renovated and arrangements are being made to play good teams from Greene and adjoining counties on Saturday afternoons.

W. C. T. U. MEETS TUESDAY AFTERNOON

"Flower Mission Day," which will be observed Sunday, was the subject of the program at a meeting of Bowersville W. C. T. U. at the home of Mrs. Flora Johnson, near Bowersville, Tuesday afternoon. Eight members and one visitor were present.

In connection with the meeting fourteen bouquets were delivered to the Bowersville vicinity. A delicious refreshment course was served by the hostess during the afternoon.

BRIDGE PARTY IS GIVEN FOR BRIDE-ELECT. Miss Betty Montague, bride-elect of Mr. Henry Eaves, was guest of honor at a delightful bridge party given by Miss Doris McCormick at her home on N. King St., Friday evening. Guests for three tables were entertained.

Miss Dora Hayward was presented first prize for holding high score, Miss Helen Spahr received second prize and Miss Montague given a guest prize. Luncheon was served by Miss McCormick later in the evening.

FORMER XENIAN HONORED IN PORTSMOUTH. Miss Mary Greisinger, formerly of this city, was elected president of the Teachers' Club of Portsmouth city school district. A picnic was held in connection with the annual meeting and more than 250 people were present.

Miss Greisinger formerly taught in the public schools here but has been teaching in Portsmouth several years.

Jean, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. W. H. Tilford, N. Detroit St., is suffering from an attack of the mumps.

Mr. and Mrs. Stephen G. Phillips and son, Charles, Messenger Apts., are spending the week-end in Port Wayne, Ind., with Mr. and Mrs. George C. Henry.

Mrs. L. S. Hyman and daughter, Ethel Marie, E. Market St., left Friday evening for Hillsboro, O., to spend the week-end with friends.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

The wolf and the lamb shall feed together, and the lion shall eat straw like the bullock: and dust shall be the serpent's meat. They shall not hurt nor destroy in all my holy mountains, saith the Lord.—Isaiah, lxvi, 25.

AUTOMOBILE THEFTS

Automobile thieves stole $24,000,000 worth of insured cars in 1929. As only about one third of that number were insured, it can be seen what a tremendous business this form of thieving has become.

A special committee of the national crime commission has reported that some uniform law should be adopted by the various states, to assist in putting down such thefts. The American people are paying a tremendous tax annually to the crooks, as the result of their failure to deal with this question vigorously.

Thousands of people are losing money also as the result of buying cars which prove afterward to have been stolen. In one large city it is stated that two thirds of the recovered automobiles are taken from persons who claim to have bought and paid for them from persons who asserted themselves to be their rightful owners. One would think that many of these people made no inquiry as to how the possessors of these cars came to have them.

Every state needs some system by which it shall be possible to trace cars through their registration, or by their motor or serial numbers, and determine if a car has had a history of honest ownership. It would seem good judgment, for a person who buys a used car from unknown parties, to take some pains to satisfy himself that they really own the car. Some purchasers do not seem to care, provided they get a low price.

There would be very few cars stolen in any city, if the owners were careful to lock them when they are left on the streets. Not many thieves bother to break open garages. The cars are stolen, because the owners encouraged theft, by presenting the crooks with an unlocked car. It only takes half a minute to lock a car, while you may unlock for weeks and not find it if it is stolen.

NOT TO BLAME

What Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce, said recently, before the National Foreign Trade Council in defense of the tariff law was not sensational, and it probably will get much less public attention than some of the colorful political assaults on the law will receive. It certainly received less general publicity than such attacks have been getting. Nevertheless, Dr. Klein's words deserve careful attention from any person who wants to get all the facts about the effect on our foreign trade of the existing protective tariff wall.

"In nineteen representative countries all over the world, comprising most of our leading customers," said Dr. Klein, "our share of their import totals last year was almost 20 per cent. Our proportion in the trade of the same markets during 1924-27 averaged 20.7 per cent. It would certainly require a considerable amount of deliberate distortion to conjure out of those figures any conclusion as to the alleged 'devastating reprisals' against American wares. Preliminary figures for 1931 show almost exactly the same trend as that indicated for 1930."

American exports to the nineteen countries indicated by the assistant secretary of commerce have decreased, but only in proportion to the general decrease of the total amount of imported goods bought by those countries. American trade has suffered no extraordinary cut beyond that suffered by other exporting nations.

This indicates strongly that the falling off of American business abroad has been a natural and normal reflection of the general depression prevailing all over the civilized world, and that the new tariff law has not affected foreign buying of American wares and products very much one way or the other.

The showing relieves the tariff of the onus of having produced at least one horrid consequence charged against it by its political critics. But you won't catch the critics admitting it.

CRIME AND GIRL FRIENDS

The desire of raw and crude youth to impress itself on its girl friends, is one well recognized source of crime. There is a kind of inherent desire in the male animal, to strut around in pretentious poses before the female. Young men like to do lavish things, to impress the girls with the idea that they are very wonderful fellows, who can perform deeds of daring and adventure from which other draw back.

The young man of few mental resources can perhaps think of no other way to impress the girls than to spend money lavishly on them. So he enjoys treating them to costly eating, dancing, and often drinking. It flatters his pride to throw around the big bills. He must have a costly automobile to complete this impression. He buys the favor of the girls by his gifts of expensive jewelry and other presents.

As the path of legitimate earning of money is a slow one, many such young men are tempted to obtain the cash for such outlays in dishonest ways. Probably this accounts for a considerable section of existing crime.

Much dangerous automobile driving can be attributed to a similar cause. The bold sheiks like to impress the girls with their dashing skill, and their easy defiance of speed regulations and watchful cops. It is unfortunate that there are girls so utterly silly and senseless that they can be impressed in such ways. Irrational spending by their boy friends should be heeded as a serious danger signal. It bodes no good to them. If they marry such a fellow, they should understand that the free spending may soon be diverted to other quarters. When a boy spends too much on them, they should also ask where he got the money, and insist on knowing.

GRADUATION CLOTHES

Girl graduates in many schools and colleges pass anxious hours over the question of their dresses for Commencement day and other festivities. The graduation expenses for girls in many public schools are so high as to constitute a burden on families of limited means.

It does not seem in accordance with the principles of democracy to place these burdens on such people. The community should encourage parents to give their daughters all the education they can make good use of. But if our customs force a penniless girl to ask her parents to go into debt or stint themselves to give her a final spurge of glory, there is something wrong about them.

Frequently the trouble is with these same parents of limited means, who are determined to give their daughters a grand blow-out regardless of expense. Influential families perform a service when they set the style of simple dressing for these occasions. Let the girls keep their swell clothes for less public affairs.

At this season of the year it may not be out of place to ask who flower venders to have a heart. Other people enjoy nature's beauty as well as they.

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK — A swank East Side apparel shop in the Fancy Fifties guarantees in an advertisement to "make you some one in particular on any street." In fact, the ad. continues, "our clothes will put you in a position to snub anyone, at any time."

DURANT SELECTIONS
Will Durant, the Dumbbell's Friend, has written a new book. Simon & Schuster, of "Trader Horn" fame, published it—if you get what I mean.

Durant lists the world's ten "greatest minds" Confucius, Plato, Aristotle—that kind of a list. He omits Christ, as a "visionary," and does not include Master Will Shakespeare, who, he says, "must be classed as only a secondary thinker."

Yass 'am!

ADD WONDERS OF MACHINE AGE

A five-ton truck which replaced a dozen Missouri mules in the service of a New York company took on most of the ornery characteristics of its predecessors, first shaking up and scaring a trainload of commuters and then tying up an important division of a railroad for more than 15 minutes.

TRANSIENT ERROR
A New York commentator on an ankle-excurion round town speaks of "the buses on Broadway lined up at the curb, with two or three sad people waiting to go to Chinatown."

The "two or three sad people" in these buses are not waiting to go to Chinatown. They are come-ons, paid 50 cents an hour by the bus proprietors to lure customers. People are diffident about climbing into an empty sight-seeing bus. The presence of "two or three sad people" makes things easier. When the bus begins to fill up the "sucker decoys" unostentatiously slip out to take up their vigil elsewhere.

OUT OF THE MOUTHS
And now cometh Doc. Harry Overstreet, psychologist, with the handsome news that the modern heroines of fiction are not ladies of high character and noble mind, morons.

The Doc might stop there, but his terminal facilities are bad, and he goes on to represent real women as "lacking in the ideals of modern progress," their "true inferiority" exposed by their acceptance, again, of long skirts.

I have not the pleasure of the Doc's acquaintance; but I should judge him to be very young or very old. Either end of the span, called Life, fits exactly the little girl's verdict after her first taste of aspirin.

"One end's raw," she said, "and the other end's rotten!"

LABOR LOST
An out-of-town newspaper man, whom we'll call John Smith, after a vain tour of local city rooms in quest of a job, hired a man to carry a sign which said: "Hire John Smith."

The sandwich man in front of the newspaper office he desired to make connection with. The city editor, entering and leaving the building, would be sure to see the sign, send out to ascertain who John Smith was, and that would be that.

Unfortunately the city editor always used a rear door entering and leaving the building—and thus another genius was lost to the profession.

UNIMPORTANT IF TRUE
Bill Robinson, hooper of the Ebony and Ivory Belt, is said to carry a solid gold gat.

THE QUESTION BOX

Central Press Bure. Wash., D.C.

Answers to questions on information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, 1435 East Twelfth Street, Cleveland, O., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions, nor will the estimated value of old coins be given.

What do oysters eat?
For the most part the food of oysters consists of microscopic plants brought near by water currents.

SILVER IN MOVIE FILMS
About how much silver is used in the production of moving picture films?

The amount of silver used for this purpose is increasing annually. In 1925 the amount totaled approximately 156 tons.

TEST FOR LINEN
How can one tell if a piece of material is all linen?

Linen, when free from dressing, will become translucent when treated with olive oil. Linen also absorbs water immediately and feels heavier than cotton. When torn quickly, linen threads are smooth, while cotton threads curl.

ARLINGTON CEMETERY
Why was the original owner of the site that is now Arlington Cemetery?

This tract of land was formerly the home of Robert E. Lee, Confederate leader. During the Civil war the property was seized by the government, and was later used as the national cemetery.

NOTE: The following pamphlets may be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin and a large stamped self-addressed envelope for each to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C.: "Who's Who in Hollywood," "Seeing Washington," "Swimming," Charles P. Stewart's treatise on "Our Government," and "The World War."

ANXIOUS MOMENTS!

WASHINGTON—Latin America is in a frame of mind, with the least bit of encouragement from Washington, for an economic federation of this country that virtually would amount to a United States of the New World.

Indeed, if given half a chance, some of the southern republics evidently intend to make the first overtures at the seventh Pan-American conference, to be held in 1933 at Montevideo, Uruguay. The program committee held a meeting here only a few days ago. At this session the subject of an inter-American customs agreement was mentioned as the one which, of all others, the Latins are perhaps most anxious to discuss with their northern neighbor.

If Washington shies away from the suggestion, of course, it will not go into the agenda, but there is no question that the southern governments' representatives will urge it as strongly as they can.

The idea of a Pan-American customs union originally, I believe, was brought to the United States by Colonel Orestes Ferrera, when he came here as ambassador from Cuba late in 1926.

Foreign Minister Antonio Planet of Chile also has spoken in favor of it, though only recently; he has not been in office long.

Business men in the United States, maybe with the exception of a few in the Latin American trade, probably have not given it much consideration, but the proposition certainly will loom up like the Washington monument, should it become the theme of serious discussion at the Montevideo conference 18 months hence.

How much political as well as economic importance is attached to any move toward a preferential leveling of international tariff walls is illustrated by the European commission in the last couple of months over the tentative customs bargain struck between Germany and Austria—an arrangement to which France especially objected so violently that it is tied up in the League of Nations now, on the Slowly but surely the number of softball doubleheaders remaining to be played is diminishing and local teams are full of hope that before the summer is over they may yet play one complete nine-inning game instead of two seven-inning contests in one evening.

Players had better keep their fingers crossed, however, because another long spell of wet weather is in prospect and the doubleheader business will start all over again.

Teams are not quite out of the doubleheader woods as it is, because at present, meaning Friday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock, four twin bills remain to be played in the National and two in the American League.

The Red Wings must play two games with the Critter and Lang Chevroleets, and the Graham Paints two games each with Wood's Barbers and the Critter. The Downtown Country Club has caught up with the schedule, having played two straight doubleheaders.

In the American League Central High and St. Bridget must play two straight doubleheaders the next two times they meet, as Thursday night's game marked the first time these two teams have met.

"Mo" Hyman, youngest of the trio of brothers, who is a collector of note, did not let slip an opportunity to add to his collection of autographs when he spent a recent week-end in Chicago. Attending a Chicago Cub baseball game, "Mo" sneaked down to the Cub's dugout and wormed autographs out of "Poostle" Blair, utility infielder, and Danny Taylor, outfielder. He would doubtless have gotten the signatures of everyone else, including Owner Wrigley, if the ushers had let him stay a little longer, as he is a persistent sort of a person.

You know, of course, of the tradition that balls knocked into the stands at major league baseball games invariably disappear into someone's pocket and are lost for good. Well, a ball was lost during a recent softball game at Cox Field. The funny thing was, however, that everyone knew where the ball was but no one could get it. Hit with tremendous force, the ball rolled to the line of autos parked in deep center field, and disappeared from view under one of the cars. Fielders searched frantically but it had dropped entirely from sight. It was uncanny. Finally, it was discovered the ball had bounced into the crank-case or some other mechanism under the machine, and was unretrievable.

We notice that our good friend "Jack" Murray, a contemporary scribe, has taken unto himself a wife. Jack has been sports editor of the Daily Call at Piqua for four and one-half years and is now about to test the theory of two living cheaper than one.

PRODUCE FIVE RUNS IN FIFTH TO CLAIM VICTORY ON FRIDAY

Brilliant Fielding Helps
Champs Take Game
6 To 1

One prosperous rally in the fifth inning when six hits produced five runs brought the Lang Chevroleets a 6 to 1 triumph over Wood's Barbers in a National League softball game at Cox Field Friday night.

Langs swamped the Barbers, 15 to 3, in the first round of play, but the Woods team, playing with a revamped lineup, gave the city champions plenty of opposition Friday night.

Brilliant fielding by the league leaders, particularly by Lee Ruse, shortstop, who was all over the diamond, gathering up difficult grounders and making bullet-like throws to first, kept the Barbers from becoming threatening on offense.

Harry Williams, pitching for the champs, allowed only four hits, two of which were made by Bob Shaw, and was seldom in trouble.

Clarence Ketter started on the mound for Woods, and after pitching well for four innings, weakened in the fifth.

Alfred Townsley, Cedarville College athlete and a newcomer on the roster of the Barbers, hurled the last four rounds and had the Lang batters eating out of his hands. He permitted no runs and allowed only two hits, both of which were infield rollers which the batters beat out to first.

Reeves, another new player obtained by Woods, looked well at first base.

Langs scored once in the first inning when Bell singled, went to second and third on passed balls, and crossed the plate when Seall hit to short and Holton made a wild peg home.

The big inning for Langs was the fifth when five runs were scored. Davis led off with a single and Patterson hit a home run over N. Murrell's head in left field.

Peter Murrell and Williams followed with singles. Bell and Ruse were retired on grounders but Seall hit for one base and five runs were in.

The Barbers escaped a shutout by tallying one run in the sixth. With one down, Townsley walked, went to second on an out at first, to third on a passed ball and scored on a timely hit by Bob Shaw.

The champions obtained a total of thirteen hits and Bell, Ruse, Seall, Davis and Corr each got two. Lineups:

JAMESTOWN WIN IS HELPED BY ERRORS

Six errors played a leading role in the 10 to 3 victory registered by the Jamestown Oil Co. softball team over the newly-reorganized Mt. Tabor Flyers in a game on the Mt. Tabor diamond Friday night.

Trout, Jamestown pitcher, permitted ten hits, one a home run by Pudge, short fielder, with the bases empty in the ninth, but was difficult to hit with runners on base. Thomas, Mt. Tabor hurler, gave the visitors fourteen blows.

Mt. Tabor will meet Rosemount in a return game on the Mt. Tabor diamond Monday night. Score by innings:

Jamestown 0 1 3 0 5 1 0-10		Mt. Tabor 1 0 0 0 0 1 0-3
Batteries: Jamestown—Trout and Coe; Mt. Tabor—Thomas and Ford.

CEDARVILLE LOSES TO PAINTERSVILLE

Undaunted by the fact their eight-game winning streak was rudely shattered by the All-Stars the other evening, the Paintersville Famous Autos started another Friday night on their own diamond by trouncing a Cedarville College team, 10 to 1.

Marvin Borst, Cedarville College coach, who pitched for the visiting team, was shelled for eighteen hits, including a triple and home run by Pickering and a circuit blow by "Atlas" Smith. Paintersville hurler, who allowed only six blows and fanned ten batters. The Autos made four errors and Cedarville had two wobbles.

LEGION TEAM TO PLAY
The Xenia American Legion Junior baseball team will make its third try for its first victory of the season in a game with the Troy Legion Juniors Sunday afternoon on the Kil Kare Park diamond. Play will be called at 2:30 o'clock.

RAY HENLEY SHOWS HEELS AGAIN AT GREENVILLE; SETS RECORD

Making his debut as a three-year-old, Ray Henley, b. g., by Peter Henley, was driven by Joe Hagler, his Xenia trainer, to a straight heat victory in the 2:15 pace valued at $400, feature offering on the closing day's card of the Ohio Short Ship Circuit harness meeting at Greenville, O., Friday afternoon.

Not only did Hagler's speedster defeat a crack field of seven other pacers, but the sensational wiggler clipped a quarter of a second off the Greenville race track record by winning the second heat in 2:05 1/4.

Ray Henley won nine straight races over Ohio half-mile tracks as a two-year-old without losing a single heat last year, and at Greenville Friday the great pacer took up this record where he left off by winning the first two heats and clinching the race. The pacer has a mark of 2:08 and he won the first heat in exactly this time.

Hagler withdrew his pacer from the third heat, which was won by Jake Worthing in 2:08 3/4, after this horse had finished second and third in the first two miles.

A large number of Xenians and other race followers from Greene County attended the Greenville races Friday for the purpose of watching Ray Henley perform, and they were not disappointed.

The barrier system of starting made a distinct nit with the fans in the grandstand.

The horses now move to Marion, O., for a race meeting next week.

One hundred and twenty-eight 4-H officers and leaders attended an annual conference Friday at the Court House.

Miss Margaret Lackey, Jamestown, Mrs. Leroy Jacobs, Clinton, Mrs. George Bootes, New Jasper, Roger Rogers, Ross and Robert Ferguson, Alpha, were elected to the county club executive committee for the coming year. The conference opened at 10 o'clock with Miss Elizabeth Hardy leading the group with games. Following this Beatrice McClellan led a number of club songs.

A general discussion of the club calendar for 1931 was taken up by the group and plans were made for conducting the health program, demonstrations, state, district and county camp, fair exhibits, and club congress. At noon a picnic luncheon was held at Shawnee Park.

Group conferences of the leaders.

ENGLISH WRITER IS AUTHOR OF GAZETTE SERIAL OF MYSTERY

LOUISE GERARD

LOUISE GERARD, author of "The Mysterious Young Man," a new serial story of love and mystery which starts in The Gazette soon, is not unknown as a writer to countless thousands of readers.

Her "Bride of the Night," "Winds of Desire," "A Son of the Sahara" and other novels have won her a permanent following. An English writer, her novels received instant acclaim in America and throughout the English-speaking world.

Once she has chosen the setting for a story she goes to the country or countries selected for local color, whether it be Brazil or in the Sahara. "Thanks to that unknown audience of mine," says Miss Gerard, "I have been able to follow out my own idea of what a book should be. My readers have assisted me in my determination to write novels that really are stories, with good plots, engrossing and enthralling, which have in them love, color, romance, interest and adventure; all the ingredients, in fact, that make life worth living and which, alas, so many lives lack."

"The Mysterious Young Man," completely fills Miss Gerard's specifications for a good story. An enthralling plot, it is magnificent realism linked with high-spirited adventures in faraway places and through it all the conflict between love and noble sacrifice. Miss Gerard has a talent for showing hearts torn by jealousy and blind misfortune and this, together with her ability to bring out the grandeur of an expiating death, arouses her readers to a tremendous experience.

HONOR AUGUSTA SURGEON
AUGUSTA, Ga., June 6.—A celebration of international scope will be held here November 14 to memorialize the service of Dr. Paul Fitzsimmons Ewe, Augusta surgeon, in the war for Polish liberty in 1880-81. Representatives of the Polish embassy and Polish societies throughout the United States President Hoover and members of the cabinet will be invited to take part in the ceremony.

GAME IS BOOKED
The Jamestown Independents have booked a game with Andy's Confectionery nine, another Dayton team, for Sunday afternoon on the Jamestown diamond. This team appeared at Jamestown a few weeks ago for a game but a downpour of rain interrupted the contest at the end of the first inning.

MYSTERY INVOLVES DEATH OF MERCHANT

BUCYRUS, O., June 6.—The mysterious murder of Sherman Stevens, Tiro feed dealer and filling station operator, today seemed doomed to go into the records as an unsolved crime as baffled authorities admitted their inability to find a motive for the slaying or any clue to its perpetrators.

Stevens was "put on the spot" under the glare of a street light in front of his filling station by unknown persons who called at his home late Wednesday night on the pretext of wanting to purchase gasoline.

The murderers vanished completely without trace or clue. Two theories were evolved by authorities seeking a solution to the crime. One was that Stevens was a victim of a bootleg feud. The other was that he was slain by a grudging neighbor. Neither theory, however, has found substantiation.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET
NEW YORK, June 6.—Friday's reaction from the peak of the week's rally was carried into a dull and featureless week-end session today, and many of the speculative favorites dropped off 1 to 4 points. Though the volume of trading was comparatively small there was no sign of a let-up in the selling wave from the first tap of the opening bell to the closing period. Many of the favorites finishing at or near the bottom. Profit-taking and new short selling by the professionals accounted for the bulk of the activity of the short session.

BOWERSVILLE SAFE LOOTED BY YEGGS

County authorities were confronted with another baffling robbery Saturday, following a report that yeggs obtained $70 or $75 in currency from a safe in the office of the New Era Grain Co. at Bowersville sometime Friday night.

The safe door was found standing open, leading authorities to believe the robbers had been able to successfully work the combination, or that they had found the combination in a cash register in the office.

Sheriff John Baughn, who investigated, said the safe-robbers had cut the glass in the front office door, then reached in and turned the night lock.

LOVE, PREFERRED

By EDNA ROBB WEBSTER

Author of "Dad's Girl", "Joretta", Etc.

Copyright 1931, Central Press Association, Inc.

MARY never quite knew how she lived through the days that followed. Her suffering and anxiety of the past months were mild, by comparison. The thought continually haunted her, that if she lost Martin's money, she would be long to him; regardless of her love for Dick and his for her. Only Foster's ultimate success could save their happiness.

Of course, both Dick and Martin believed themselves engaged to Mary—wanted to see her and entertain her continually. She became desperate. She couldn't keep telling both of them that she had to work evenings; yet she was afraid to be seen in public with either of them. She knew that if she were with one of them and saw the other, nothing could save her happiness for her.

She appealed to Foster. "Couldn't I leave town for a few days—anywhere, with business for an objective, until this affair reaches some kind of a climax? I can't manage those two insistent men another day."

"That's a good idea, Mary. As a matter of fact, it helps me solve a problem. I should go to Washington, myself, but I can't let go of the reins here. You can handle my business in Washington better than you could manage here alone, now. Better plan to leave tomorrow—the sooner, the better."

Mary could have hugged him, in her gratitude and relief. "How long shall I be gone?"

"Oh, stay a week, even if you don't need that much time for business. 'No, I've never been anywhere,' she smiled.

"Well, see the city and take a rest. You need it. If conditions are no better here, then we can think of something else."

Dick protested when he heard the news. "Say, what does he think you are—sending you off to Washington alone? Let him go."

"Why, dear, this is like a vacation for me—and an honor, besides. Think of being delegated to represent Ronald R. Foster in Washington! And it will be for only a week." Mary coaxed for his approval.

"A week is a long time—not to see you," he complained, forgetting the long months he had stayed away from her.

Of course, Mary was not half as glad to go as she pretended to be—to escape to escape the perplexing situation. She had a busy evening preparing for the trip, on which plea she avoided favoring either of the men. And how she yearned to have Dick with her again! But she had gone so far in currency from a safe in the office of the New Era Grain Co. at Bowersville sometime Friday night.

The safe door was found standing open, leading authorities to believe the robbers had been able to successfully work the combination, or that they had found the combination in a cash register in the office.

Sheriff John Baughn, who investigated, said the safe-robbers had cut the glass in the front office door, then reached in and turned the night lock.

Bluebird Troop, No. 2, Girl Scouts of America, will meet Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock in Shawnee Park to make plans for an outing and to receive literature and information about camps. In case of rain the meeting will be held at the Court House.

The Theater

There will be whoopee-making at the Orphium Theater during the coming week, starting when Eddie Cantor, the original whoopee-maker himself, makes whoopee on the Orphium screen in that United Artists classic of fun, "Whoopie."

The piece was transferred from the New York stage to the Hollywood sound stages, where it was presented by Florenz Ziegfeld and Samuel Goldwyn, and gives the main streets a touch of Broadway frolic, with comedy and music, all done in technicolor.

The original opus was founded on the stage play by Owen Davis, "The Nervous Wreck" and was directed for the movies by Thorne moustache and begins to practice that sort of polished villainy that he exhibited in the Little Theater Guild play, "East Lynne," you had better hide Our Little Nelly in the attic before dirt is done her.

Hy on the stage looked like a John Held engraving of the barber shop lounge who is out to oggle the new milliner. He was so villainous that patrons had to be evacuated for guns before admittance for fear he would be shot during some of his villainous acts. All he needed was to have his hair parted down the back.

Judge George Thorne, a newcomer to Guild productions, brought a finished historic voice to the stage in his first role. His deep tones defied the Opera House acoustics.

The cottage occupied by the bridal couple sits atop a sand dune overlooking the ocean. Mrs. McCormick, then Mrs. Stillman, lived near this same spot in 1919 when the paternity of her youngest child Guy was being questioned in court by Stillman.

The final decree of divorce was granted Mrs. Stillman in Rockland County on Thursday. Almost immediately, Mrs. Stillman, the one time Fifi Potter, motored to White Plains with McCormick and the couple were married by Supreme Court Justice Graham Witschief. The two witnesses to the ceremony were former Supreme Court Justice John E. Mack of Poughkeepsie and Mrs. James A. (Bud) Stillman Jr., the former Lena Wilson, daughter of a lumberjack at the Stillman camp in the Canadian woods.

Mrs. Stillman has ever been an active woman. In December, 1928, she sought to forget her marital misadventures by publishing a smart pictorial weekly known as "Panorama." The publication was scrapped after about three months.

During this period young McCormick spent much of his time at the magazine office. Mrs. Stillman confided to close friends that Fowler McCormick had repeatedly asked her to marry him, but that she felt there was too much difference in their ages. She said that she had been interested in Fowler only as a nice young boy who was a friend of her son "Bud," who had stood by his mother during the Stillman divorce suit in which Mr. Stillman named Fred Beauvais, Indian guide, as the father of young Guy Stillman. Much mystery surrounded the actual facts leading to the divorce obtained by Mrs. Stillman. Her mention of Stillman's alleged misconduct named no one.

There was no mention of alimony in the divorce decree made public yesterday. It is understood that a financial settlement had been made some months before the recent divorce proceedings were started.

The Stillmans have three children in addition to "Bud." Anne, once rumored to have been the object of Fowler McCormick's affections, is now Mrs. Henry P. Davison, Jr. Then there is Alexander, 19, and Guy, 12. Provision for their future is believed to have been made in a private settlement arranged through Judge Mack. The Stillmans were married on June 3, 1931. She was the daughter of James Brown Potter, and his first wife, who was Cora Urquhart of New Orleans.

Stillman graduated from Harvard in 1906 and two years later had become a successful banker. Fowler's mother is a daughter of John D. Rockefeller, Sr. His father is Harold McCormick. His father and mother are divorced. McCormick later marrying Ganna Walska, the singer.

GEORGIA PEACHES BLOOM

ATLANTA, Ga.—After suffering a slump in 1929 and 1930, Georgia's peach crop is expected to reach normal or better this year, although it probably will not exceed the 1928 crop of 16,000 cars, according to W. C. Bewley, general manager of the Georgia Peach Growers' Exchange.

NEW YORK GOVERNOR VISITS ANTIOCH ON TRIP TO COLUMBUS

ident of Antioch: Dean A. D. Henderson and Miss Helen F. Greene, associate dean of the extramural school. President Arthur E. Morgan and Prof. W. M. Leiserson of the Antioch faculty, both of whom are personal friends of New York's chief executive, were away from the institution.

In pausing at Yellow Springs on his way to Columbus, Governor Roosevelt fulfilled a promise made last year to Prof. Leiserson of the department of economics, at the time Leiserson delivered an address before a group of governaassembled at Albany, N. Y., to discuss the unemployment situation. Governor Roosevelt did not leave his auto, due to physical disability, but Mrs. Roosevelt did so and inspected the various buildings on the campus, including the Antioch School. Because of her interest in secondary education and the fact she operates a private school of her own, the governor's wife displayed a keen interest in the "experimental" school at Antioch, which affords educational facilities for children of the community and for children of faculty members from nursery to high school.

Governor Roosevelt motored through the college grounds. He confided to college officials that he is familiar with the history of Antioch from its beginning, that he is especially interested in Antioch's plan of cooperative education and that he has made it a point to keep in close touch with the progress of the institution. Commenting upon the address which Prof. Leiserson gave before the conference of governors in Albany, Governor Roosevelt described it as "by far the best delivered on this occasion. He lived things up with his delightful humor and good sense when everyone was on the point of going to sleep."

Declaring that he had always wanted to visit Antioch, Governor Roosevelt expressed regret that President Morgan and Prof. Leiserson were away. President Morgan was in Muncie, Ind., where he delivered the commencement address at Ball State Teachers' College, and Prof. Leiserson, who is active on unemployment commissions and labor arbitration boards as well as in teaching economics at Antioch, left Friday for Washington, D. C.

At the Antioch school the visitors met Miss Hilda Hughes, director. Mrs. Roosevelt is vice-principal of the Teod-Hunter School in New York City.

The governor, asked about education in New York, was of the opinion that, despite the $115,000,000 aid given by the state to public schools there this year, that there is still a great deal to be done in the forward direction. "There are still 17,000 one-room schools left in the state of New York," he remarked.

MORE POLICE RADIOS
ATLANTA, Ga.—Atlanta has joined other cities in ten city police radio cars. A broadcasting station has been established at headquarters. While a power of 150 watts is being used at first, the transmitter covers Atlanta and its environs and can be increased to 1,000 miles with full power.
